New Plans Laid By Inflationists

ISSUE WILL BE INJECTED IN CAMPAIGN

Lemke and Patman Predict Major Fight on Currency Expansion

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(UP)—House inflationists came back from a stunning defeat on the Frazier-Lemke bill today to lay plans for carrying the issue into a campaign.

Rep. William Lemke, R. N. D., and Rep. Wright Patman, D. Tex., predicted the major fight in the next congress would be currency expansion and that inflationist ranks would be increased in the November national election. Lemke said he would go into congressional districts to help elect supporters of his bill.

Congressional Democratic leaders, jubilant over their 235 to 142 defeat of the farm inflation bill, said they considered that the vote demonstrated definitely that the house is opposed to inflation.

Called "Reassuring"

"It is the most reassuring message that has gone out to the country during the administration," Rules Committee Chairman John J. Conner said. "The vote proves definitely that there is no possibility of inflation and if business has been waiting for a demonstration to restore confidence, this is one big evidence of the stable attitude of the administration."

Lemke, mild-mannered leader of the farm-currency bloc said: "The fight has just begun. Organized labor is with us, despite the letter from President William Green."

Lemke referred to a letter from the Federation of Labor to Speaker Joseph W. Byrnes, opposing the bill. The letter read to the house yesterday by the speaker was credited by some members with aiding materially in swinging doubtful votes to the administration side.

WORLD WAR HERO CALLED BY DEATH

LONDON, May 14.—(UP)—Lord Allenby, World war conqueror and one of Britain's foremost soldier-statesmen, died today. He was 75.

Lord Allenby died at 12:30 p. m. His death plunged England and the empire into mourning. Only this week he deplored in the strongest terms Italy's methods of warfare against Ethiopian warriors.

His death was sudden. It was believed the result of a heart attack.

Allenby directed the cavalry pursuit which clinched the allied victory on the Marne in 1914. In command of the British third army he launched the spring offensive of 1917 on the western front, resulting in the capture of Vimy Ridge with 1,000 prisoners and 145 guns after 13 hours fighting.

ITALIAN VICTORY APPROVED BY ROME

ROME, May 14.—(UP)—The chamber of deputies today unanimously approved the royal decree of May 9 proclaiming Italian sovereignty over Ethiopia, making King Victor Emmanuel king and emperor and appointing Marshal Pietro Badoglio viceroy of the conquered territory.

The decrees were presented personally by Premier Benito Mussolini. Unanimous approval was voted immediately after their formal examination by a parliamentary commission.

Meanwhile Italy and all Europe awaited from Il Duce a pronouncement on his policy toward the League of Nations—whether to withdraw in anger or remain a non-cooperating member until the

4 POLICEMEN ARE INDICTED FOR BURGLARY

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—(UP)—The county grand jury today voted indictments charging burglary and conspiracy against four police officers accused of looting a drug store owned by Dr. Thomas Schumate, member of the police commission.

Those named in the indictments are Sydney Hinson, John Farrell, Thomas Miller and John J. McKenna.

Previously Hinson, Farrell and Miller had been suspended. McKenna had been cited to appear before the police commission to answer a charge of improperly keeping a record of the robbery report.

Three other officers faced disciplinary action by the police commission today following their refusal last night to accept a "last chance" offer to testify in a current grand jury inquiry into an alleged police graft.

The three officers, Capt. Frederick Lemon, Capt. Thomas Hoertkorn and Patrolman Joseph Brouder, answered a summons to appear before the jury last night but repeated earlier refusals to testify on constitutional grounds.

DEMAND AUTOPSY IN GIRL'S DEATH

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—(UP)—Coroner Charles H. Hersch today ordered an autopsy performed on the body of 16-year-old Pauline Lane, Knoxville, Tenn., who died of complications before an operation could be performed to remove a cigarette lighter top from her left lung.

He announced that a burial permit would not be issued until an autopsy, to be performed this afternoon by Dr. Charles Moriarity, coroner's physician, established that the girl's death was caused by a hemorrhage due to an abscess in the lung.

Pauline died yesterday at Temple university hospital.

Coroner Hersch said the body would be released for return to Knoxville as soon as the autopsy had been performed. He explained that the examination was necessary because the girl's death was classified as "accidental."

BORAH, MIFFED BY OHIO VOTE, MAY WALK OUT

Idaho Senator Has Foot in Air Toward First Step of Party Bolt

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah had his foot in the air today toward the first step of a walk out on his party.

The Borah bolt became at least a possibility as tabulation of West Virginia and Ohio presidential primary returns piled up a big regular Republican victory.

Borah won five or six of 52 Republican National convention delegates in Ohio. His slate of delegates-at-large was swamped. Robert A. Taft, blessed by an informal coalition of other Republican aspirants, got the rest of the delegation.

It was Borah against the field in Ohio with Taft as the "favorite son" candidate representing all anti-Borah factions. After one ballot the Taft delegates may go where they will and according to their leaders' judgment. Taft entered a full slate of 52 delegates. Borah was shy 17 candidates. Originally his managers intended to enter only candidates for delegates-at-large. If they had maintained that strategy Tuesday's reverse would have been a more striking disaster.

Breckenridge Swamped

Col. Henry C. Breckenridge, New York lawyer, went down 12 to 1 in Ohio in his presidential primary contest with President Roosevelt. The best showing Breckenridge has made was a 1 to 5 defeat sustained in Maryland May 4. He projected his candidacy to test anti-Roosevelt sentiment among Democrats. New Dealers contend his success of second places proves Mr. Roosevelt has not been deserted by the masses although many eastern leaders oppose him.

Although Gov. Alf M. Landon has counted Ohio in his political parade, the primary returns showed the state director of Frank Knox's presidential campaign leading the list of successful Taft delegates-at-large.

FORUM DIRECTOR

Homer C. Chaney, Santa Ana banker, who today was named executive of the federal forum to be launched here next September. He enters upon his duties tomorrow at a salary of $5400 yearly.

HOMER CHANEY NAMED TO HEAD FEDERAL FORUM

APPOINTMENT OF Homer C. Chaney, Santa Ana banker, as executive director of the federal forum to be launched here next September, was announced today by Frank A. Henderson, superintendent of Santa Ana schools who is administrator of the forum project.

The appointment carries a salary of $5400 per year. Chaney became responsible for arranging a series of forum lectures on such subjects as he selects which he said will deal with economics, Chaney's own special field. His duties commence May 15.

Superintendent Henderson, in announcing the appointment, made known that Chaney was the unanimous choice of the school principals of Orange county, who have advised with the administrator on matters relating to the forum.

Chaney has been granted a leave of absence from his position in the trust department of the First National bank in Santa Ana, to accept the forum directorship.

He has been summoned to Washington to confer with Dr. J. W. Studebaker, national commissioner of education, and on May 22 and 23 will be in conference there with the nine other executive directors of similar projects distributed throughout the nation.

The only other project in the Pacific coast area is that in Portland, Ore.

Santa Ana was chosen among the 19 locations for such projects because of the friendship between Dr. Studebaker and Superintendent Henderson, who were formerly educational associates in Iowa.

Director Chaney, well known throughout Orange county, is prominent, not only in banking circles, but in the American Legion and as a speaker before service groups.

SHIP RAMS ROCK IN FOG OFF ALASKA

Passengers and Crew Put Off in Life Boats as Danger Grows

SEATTLE, May 14.—(UP)—The steamship North Sea—leaking badly after hitting a rock during a heavy fog in Alaska waters—put off her 140 passengers and a crew of 40 men in life boats today when the vessel appeared to be in danger of foundering, the coast guard headquarters was advised.

The coast guard cutter Alert picked up the entire group from life boats and headed for Ketchikan, Alaska, about 65 miles from where the vessel went aground at 3:30 a. m. today.

The Alert reported Captain A. W. Nickerson and a crew of 27 remained aboard the Northland Transportation company's vessel and planned to beach her off Mexican Point if she was in danger of sinking.

TUG FREE AFTER LOG RAFT BREAKS UP ON CAPE ROCK

SEATTLE, May 14.—(UP)—The tug Sea Lion has broken on Cape Blanco Rock, the Port Orford coast guard station reported today. The tug was free. The U. S. patrol Pulkaski was on hand to assist in possible salvaging of the raft.

Three fishing boats were broken from their anchorage and tossed on the Port Orford beach by heavy seas that rolled Wednesday night. It was reported here.

ORDER COMMISSION FOR U. S. DIRIGIBLE

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(UP)—The house naval affairs committee today adopted unanimously a resolution authorizing the navy to put the old "Queen of the Skies" dirigible Los Angeles into immediate flying condition.

The Los Angeles, which was decommissioned more than two years ago because of alleged "old age," was inspected by members of the committee and Dr. Hugo Eckener last Sunday while the giant dirigible Hindenburg was moored at the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J.

Rep. William H. Stuppin, D. N. J., introduced the resolution, which does not require congressional action. It directs the navy department through Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations and acting secretary of navy, to put the cigar-shaped dirigible into active flying condition.

WEALTHY ARTIST FEARED KIDNAPED

NEW YORK, May 14.—(UP)—A confidential police alarm was broadcast today for Seymour De Koven, 31, wealthy artist of Chicago, feared a kidnaper victim. He disappeared from his suite in the Ritz-Carlton hotel last night.

De Koven is a nephew of the murdered Eli Daines, Chicago advertising executive.

De Koven, it was learned, arrived here three weeks ago with a bodyguard.

It was understood that he aided authorities in apprehending those responsible for his uncle's death.

California Relief Fund Check Issued

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(UP)—United States treasury checks totaling $5,355,753.96 were issued to California, Wisconsin, Washington, and Iowa today to cover the public-assistance grants from April 1 to June 30.

California receives its first allotment of federal funds—$2,700,140.63.

ZIONCHECK SET TO GIVE PUERTO RICO 'THE WORKS'

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Island, May 14.—(UP)—Rep. Marion Zioncheck, D., Wash., today constituted himself a private one man army to "go back and clean up Puerto Rico."

The swashbuckling congressman climaxed a series of escapades in San Juan by flying to St. Thomas with his bride because, he said, his life in Puerto Rico was in danger.

He regarded the Puerto Rican student riots and anti-American demonstrations as having been specifically anti-Zioncheck.

"I had no intention of coming to the Virgin Islands," Zioncheck said. "But my personal safety demanded that I seek safety. I chose St. Thomas as a haven of refuge after telephone wires to my San Juan hotel room had been cut and our room attacked."

Zioncheck last night was the center of amazed interest at a ball at Government house given in honor of the officers of the visiting German warship Karlsruhe.

Between ordering officials around and demanding frequent service of highballs to his party he damned the Puerto Ricans in vividly purple language.

"As soon as I return to Washington we will cut Puerto Rico away immediately," Zioncheck shouted. He had halted an astonishing fancy dance with his bride to proclaim his program.

"Puerto Rico as an island is all right but the people are beasts. I don't give a damn what the United States does with Puerto Rico. Anything would be too good."

Zioncheck said he plans to fly to Haiti on May 20, probably by way of Puerto Rico.

Life In Pen Begun Today By Robinson

ATLANTA, Ga., May 14.—(UP)—Thomas H. Robinson Jr., today smilingly entered the forbidding Atlanta federal penitentiary where he has been sentenced to spend the remainder of his life for the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll.

He walked up the steps of the prison at 8:50 a. m., C.S.T., manacled to a federal agent.

He changed his gray plaid slacks, tan windbreaker, powder blue felt hat and white shirt for prison garb, but Warden A. C. Adershoft, as in the case of all federal prisoners, would not reveal the details of the "dressing in" process.

The 29-year-old Nashville, Tenn., kidnaper entered the prison 12 minutes after he arrived in Atlanta by train from Louisville, Ky., where he pleaded guilty last night to kidnaping.

His trip from Louisville was made in the company of five federal agents, one carrying a machine gun. He bade tearful good-byes to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Robinson Sr., in Louisville and then they left for Nashville.

Thief Steals Necklace And Ancient Curse

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 14.—(UP)—The thief who stole King Tut's lapis lazuli necklace ordered a double dose of bad luck for himself, police and the victim said today.

The ancient bauble was taken from the apartment of Miss L. F. Enckling, who received it from a member of the party which opened King Tutankhamen's tomb. The woman who gave her the necklace discovered it was possessed of the same potent curse said to have emanated from the tomb itself, Miss Enckling explained.

"She lost her position. Her health failed. Bad luck dogged her generally, so she gave me the necklace," she said.

FARM WIFE FORCED TO GET DINNER

Eight Convicts and Three Hostages Pursued by 200 in Posse

McALESTER, Okla., May 14.—(UP)—Eight desperate fugitives from the state penitentiary here fled through the rugged and sparsely settled wilds of southeastern Oklahoma today.

They carried three hostages as protection against the pursuit of 200 officers and possmen. Two of the kidnap victims in the bloody break from the penitentiary, Guards Tuck Cope and Victor Conn, were wounded.

Grave concern that they and the third prisoner of the felons, Wilburn Doak, would meet the same fate as did another guard at the time of the break—summary death when their purpose has been served—was general.

Yard Foreman Slain

This same group of convicts shot C. D. Powell, superintendent of the prison brick yard, through the head shortly after they rebelled yesterday. They dumped his body from the commandeered automobile in which they fled before they had quit the confines of McAlester.

The trail of the fugitives streaked erratically south of McAlester and was lost in the thinly populated area around Blanco and Pittsburg.

Last night the band seized Doak while he was hunting his cows near Blanco. They forced him to change clothes with one of their number and to accompany them.

Then they stopped at the sequestered farm home of Mrs. Taylor. Threatening her with guns, they forced her to prepare a meal for them. She said the group numbered 15.

The accuracy of her count was questionable, since the eight convicts and three hostages would account for two less than her total.

Authorities continued a searching investigation of the rebellion yesterday afternoon.

Two tower guards who threw down their guns at the command of convicts threatening other guards were suspended by Warden Roy E. Kenny and Chairman L. M. Nichols of the state board of affairs.

Nichols said the investigation would embrace "the whole prison setup."

Nichols said prison officials had

NEW TAX PLAN ESTIMATE MADE BY MORGENTHAU

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(UP)—Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., today submitted estimates to the senate finance committee, showing that $623,000,000 annually could be raised by the proposed "compromise" corporate profits tax in the $803,000,000 revenue bill.

Chairman Pat Harrison, D. Miss., who called upon the treasury for estimates on the revised plan for taxing undivided corporate earnings said:

"I am convinced that we can raise the $623,000,000 by the new method proposed."

He declined to make public immediately the proposed schedules. His plan is based upon the imposition of a flat 15 per cent tax on all corporate net income and graduated surtaxes on that part of net income over 20 per cent which is retained for reserves.

The treasury also submitted their much-delayed estimates seeking to refute criticism that the federal government would lose large amounts of revenue by exempting large corporations which pay out all their earnings in dividends.

This data showed that 75 corporations having net income of $1,000,000 each in 1934 distributed no dividends and paid the government only $27,000,000 in taxes. Under the pending act these corporations would have paid the government $96,000,000.

Eighty-nine corporations which distributed less than 45 per cent of their earnings in dividends paid $35,000,000 in federal taxes and under the proposed house bill would pay the government $78,000,000.

OFFICER'S SLAYER SEES LAST SUNRISE

ARIZONA STATE PRISON, Florence, May 14.—(UP)—The sun rose today on the last 24 hours of life for young Jack Sullivan, murderer of an Arizona peace officer.

In the first light of dawn tomorrow, the 23-year-old ex-convict will be stripped to a pair of shorts, led into a small, stuffy, white-painted room, strapped to a white chair and put to death with deadly cyanide gas.

Little more than an arm's length away, newspapermen and official witnesses will crowd around the plate glass windows to observe the law enact the penalty of a life for a life.

Sullivan killed John Bradbury, Southern Pacific railroad policeman, when the officer and a federal immigration agent sought to question him and other transients.

LADY'S DAY IN HOSPITAL AS 7 GIRLS BORN

It was lady's day, most assuredly, in Orange county hospital circles today, as seven new babies appeared on the earthly scene—all of them, including twins, being of the feminine gender.

There was Mrs. Gonzalo Martinez of Santa Fe avenue, Anaheim, who brought twins to the Orange county hospital and, what's more, the twins and their mother are doing fine. Mrs. Jeff Proctor, Cypress, also has a new baby daughter at the Orange county hospital.

Over at Santa Ana Valley hospital, Mrs. Clarence L. Ranney, wife of Dr. Ranney, and Mrs. L. J. Marchant, 617 South Shelton, gave birth to two more daughters. But wait. Over by Orange, at St. Joseph hospital, Mrs. Stanley Wheeler, box 482 Garden Grove, and Mrs. Clarence Goodman, 346 West America avenue, Fullerton, also maintained feminine leadership with one daughter each. The Boardman and Marchant babies arrived yesterday but all of the others arrived today.

CONVICTS HOLD COUNCIL OF WAR, AWAITING MEAL

BLANCO, Okla., May 14.—(UP)—Fugitive convicts who forced a Mrs. Taylor to cook their supper late last night, at the point of guns, held a council of war in her kitchen, debating on how to outwit more than 200 officers pursuing them.

Mrs. Taylor was forced to cook a meal for 12 men, including Wilburn Doak, kidnapped neighbor, Tuck Cope, and Victor Conn, wounded prison guards.

Mrs. C. G. Pace, clerk in a store in the little community here, related how the convicts raided the Taylor home in search of food. The alarm was spread from the Mike Israel store in which Mrs. Pace works.

The presence of the 12th and 15th men was unaccounted for, as the eight escaped convicts and their hostages would make only 11 men.

"They had Doak with them when they went to the Taylor home," Mrs. Pace said.

"Doak was out hunting the cows last night when the men ran on to him and kidnapped him. They forced him to change clothes with one of them, and the rest of the convicts were prison clothes. He wasn't hurt."

Guards Wounded

"The two prison guards were wounded. One of them was shot in the neck and I don't know where the other was shot."

"They didn't have anything to say when they were at the Taylors. The convicts left one gun when they drove away from the Taylor home late last night. It was left on the kitchen table."

"They talked in the kitchen about the roads, how they might escape, and whether they would have to take anybody else. They also talked about sending a car."

"Mrs. Taylor recognized Doak. The convicts didn't say which route they were taking."

"They had guns in their hands when they went into the Taylor home and ordered Mrs. Taylor to cook them some supper."

"They were driving one car, a Ford V-8 sedan, and it was loaded down."

Officers today were searching through the territory around Blanco, and had gone out to the remote Taylor home to talk to the housewife.

The Taylors have no telephone, and a relative had to come three and a half miles into Blanco to telephone officers of the raid, Mrs. Pace said.

FASCIST CHIEF IN AUSTRIA IS SHORN OF RULE

VIENNA, May 14.—(UP)—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, newly installed as unofficial dictator after a swift, bloodless coup which approximated a revolution, intends to disarm the Fascist Heimwehr of Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, it was said authoritatively today. Starhemberg, ousted by Schuschnigg, and the new man behind the throne, Josef Rethler, peasant leader, brought about his own downfall by sending Premier Benito Mussolini fulsome telegrams of congratulation on the conquest of Ethiopia.

Schuschnigg disapproved, and so did Rethler, who is a man little known abroad but beloved by the peasants, an anti-Fascist, anti-Nazi, called the country's greatest hope for democratic government. The coup was a smashing blow at Mussolini.

Former Finance Minister Josef Kollmann, leader of the left wing of the Schuschnigg-Rethler Christian Socialists, told the United Press Starhemberg's troops would be disbanded within a few weeks.

"We do not expect active opposition," he said.

But soldiers and police throughout the country took exceptional measures to insure peace.

It was announced Starhemberg would leave for Rome by train tonight, as the official leader of Austrian sports, to attend a football game Sunday between Italian and Austrian teams.

He was to have flown there this morning, and it was reported that he had been ousted, he intended to consult Mussolini and other Italian leaders on Austro-Italian cooperation in event of war and on the possibility Austria might follow Italy if it left the League of Nations.

Starhemberg wired Mussolini yesterday, congratulating him "on the triumph of Fascism over democratic dishonesty and hypocrisy and over democratic mendacity."

It was sent without Schuschnigg's knowledge, it was said; and Schuschnigg and his hard-boiled co-leader, Rethler, Starhemberg's open enemy for years, believed it was unwelcome. They said it was an indirect attack on Great Britain and other nations joining in penalties against Italy.

WOMEN PREPARE TO FIGHT SALES TAX

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 14.—(UP)—A determined campaign against repeal of the sales tax and substitution of a single tax as proposed in a constitutional amendment on the November general election ballot was planned today by members of the California federation of women's clubs in an emergency resolution.

Final action on this and other regular resolutions was delayed by the convention until tomorrow after most of today's early session was devoted to a series of open forums.

WIFE OF CURATOR OF MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY IN N. Y. ON TRIAL HERE FOR INSANITY

Testimony that Mrs. Lydia Pedraja Simpson, wife of Dr. George Gaylord Simpson, curator of the Museum of Natural History in New York City, is a victim of the form of insanity known as paranoia, and is a menace to herself and society, was given today by Dr. John D. Ball, of Santa Ana, called as a witness at the insanity trial of Mrs. Simpson in Superior Judge G. K. Scovel's court.

Dr. Ball, first witness summoned by the state, was still on the stand at the noon recess, undergoing cross-examination by Mrs. Simpson's attorney, W. J. Heinz, of Anaheim, who was appointed by the court to defend her.

The case is being heard by a jury, the new superior court panel being initiated into service by the Simpson matter. Heinz exercised all of the 10 peremptory challenges allowed the defense, before the jury was finally selected. Assistant District Attorney James L. Davis and Deputy Clarence Sprague, in charge of the prosecution, did not wield a challenge.

Members of the jury are: John Van Rhyne, Costa Mesa; W. D. Barker, Santa Ana; Pauline Lemke, Olive; George Grant, Orange; Emily Schneider and Margaret C. Evans, of Fullerton; Evelyn King, John Keilengreier Jr., and S. J. Scully, of Anaheim; Dora L. Page, Yorba Linda; Amelia C. Peck, Placentia; Charles E. Lewis, Huntington Beach.

Dr. Ball, who testified that Mrs. Simpson had come to him repeatedly during a period of several months, said he based his opinion that she is insane and suffering several forms of delusion, including grandeur and persecution, upon his personal conversations with her, and his observation of her; also from other sources.

He testified that she told him her husband, Dr. Simpson, was persecuting her; that she had been placed in an asylum for criminal insane in New York, and had escaped; that she was afraid the police were after her, although she was now no longer wanted for her escape, having been away for more than a year.

She also told him, he said, that several doctors had examined her and pronounced her sane, but did not mention a number of doctors in Orange county who had judged her otherwise. She was regarded as a dangerous person in several parts of the United States, he said she told him. She also told him of "an incident" in Washington where she tried to get two of her children away from her husband's mother; and said she had had trouble with her own mother in Kansas, over the custody of her other two children.

In Santa Ana, to establish herself in a position where she could support her four children, she told him, according to the testimony.

Dr. Ball described his treatment of her for a thyroid condition; and also his advice to her regarding another condition, which she seemed to fear was cancer, but which he told her was not, he said. Subsequently he learned, he said, that she had gone to various other physicians, all of whom told her she did not have cancer, but that, after being brought to the Orange county hospital recently for observation, she still insisted that she have an examination for cancer. She had told one doctor in Santa Ana, he said, that she had told her she had cancer, whereas he had not so told her.

This, he said, was one form of delusion in his opinion. Her "fixed fear" of arrest, was a delusion of persecution, he said. Her "self importance," said the witness, was a delusion of grandeur.

Mrs. Simpson's appearance some time ago, before a section of the Santa Ana Ebell club, was cited by the physician as evidencing a delusion of grandeur. She had told him, he said, that she felt she was wasting her talents appearing before just a section of the club; she should have spoken before the entire club.

He told him frequently of persecutions, he said, and would talk to him as long as he could listen to her. Finally, he said, she asked him he agreed with the others who believed her insane, and he admitted to her that he did. She then began to fear him and classed him as her persecutor, he said.

He knew that was a delusion, Dr. Ball remarked.

She is a woman of brilliant mind, and her delusions are built upon what appear to her to be logical grounds, he said.

She once told him, he stated, that if society continued to hound her, she would commit some desperate crime.

On cross-examination, Attorney Heinz questioned Dr. Ball as to whether Mrs. Simpson's fear of the police actually was a delusion and whether her husband really had written to Santa Ana police about her. The witness admitted such a letter, but said that he knew that during part of the time she feared the police, they had dropped investigation of her case, and did not reopen it until they received local complaints.

Heinz pointed out to the witness that Detective Lieutenant Charles Wolford, of the Santa Ana police department, had filed the insanity charge against Mrs. Simpson.

The defense attorney also brought out that Dr. Ball's wife, a member of the Ebell club, had escorted Mrs. Simpson to the meeting at which Mrs. Simpson presented a paper.

Dr. Ball said he had informed his wife of his opinion regarding Mrs. Simpson, and hinted at exciting events that took place at the meeting, but was not permitted to testify regarding them, because the testimony was "hearsay."

UTT SPEAKS AT MEETING TODAY OF LIONS CLUB

State Assemblyman James Utt, Sheriff Logan Jackson and Bob Farrar, assistant vice-principal at Santa Ana high school, were the speakers at the Lions club luncheon today in Green Cat cafe.

Assemblyman Utt spoke of "The Background of California" in its relation to American history. He pointed out that west coast history was made by the white man before east coast history. "Our civilization, of which we can be very proud, ante-dates that of New York and other eastern states," he said in outlining the stories of Cortez, the Jesuits and Franciscans, and others who have given us a distinctive architecture and nomenclature.

The sheriff, called upon for an extemporaneous speech spoke briefly on law enforcement, while Farrar repeated his delivery of a five-minute talk on "Lionism and Social Justice," which he gave recently at the Second District gathering of Lions at the Ebell club.

During the meeting Jack Wallace announced a sports event to be held under auspices of the Junior Lions at Andrews gymnasium Saturday night, May 23. The event will include, boxing, wrestling, gymnastics, swimming and other contests.

Information will be filed in superior court May 22. Hockaday and Phillips told officers they had been missing an average of $10 worth of goods daily for several years and when they made a recent close checkup, discovered that Whitney, a customer, helped himself to goods but allegedly failed to report he had taken them, according to the complaints.

KRAEMER FREED IN CONNECTION WITH SLAYING

As some 200 Mexican men, women and children of the Placentia district looked on and a dozen enforcement officers scattered about through the crowd, a coroner's jury in charge of Coroner Earl Abbey yesterday afternoon at McAdams and Suters funeral chapel, Fullerton, exonerated William A. Kraemer, 24-year-old member of a prominent Placentia family, from blame in the death Monday night of Francisco Gomez, 16, Placentia, from a gunshot wound.

The crowd was voluble but orderly as Sheriff Logan Jackson and three or four deputies, and several Fullerton and Placentia officers stood by. Kraemer, held at county jail charged with suspicion of manslaughter, was released following the jury's verdict of "justifiable homicide."

Kraemer said he rushed to the porch as his wife screamed Monday night and discovered a peeping tom at the window of the room in which Mrs. Kraemer was sleeping. The peeper turned and ran, Kraemer said, and when he failed to stop as Kraemer ordered him to do so, Kraemer shot three times. Gomez' body was found three blocks from the scene the following morning. Kraemer informed officers of the peeping tom incident, which had been repeated several times during the past three months, and a check showed the bullet from Gomez' loin came from a .32 calibre revolver used by Kraemer. "I did not mean to kill him, but the recoil of my gun must have thrown the bullet higher than I expected," Kraemer said.

Young Gomez had no police record, it was revealed. The district attorney, upon report of the coroner's jury, dismissed the complaint against Kraemer.

In West Virginia where Borah was opposed by a political non-entity he got a moderately encouraging but merely complimentary preferential ballot endorsement.

As close to final returns reached the capital, Borah lashed at the old guard party organization. His language startled observers who believed Borah's lifetime habit of presidential year party regularity would prevail this time. In blistering words the senator denounced "the men who are in control of the party, who will likely be in control of the convention and who will write its platform and name its candidate."

Borah charged that party regulars in New York, Illinois and Ohio had supported a pending federal anti-lynching bill which the senator contends is unconstitutional. Borah opposed the bill and alienated Negro voters. He argued that the constitution and states rights would be no safer in the hands of persons controlling the Republican party than "in the hands of those who openly advocate a change in our form of government."

The Negro vote has been well organized against Borah, and his senate opposition to the anti-lynching bill placed him on the defensive during stumping tours of Ohio, Illinois and New York.

REALTY COMPANY PLANS CAMPAIGN

SEAL BEACH, May 14.—With an extensive improvement and development program already under way plans are being completed now for an extensive selling campaign involving practically all property, taken over last August by the Security First National bank at a foreclosure sale.

The Dickson Realty company, with the exclusive right to sell the bank holdings, has opened an office in the old Bayside administration building. The property taken over last August by the bank includes practically 50 per cent of the town, including business, residential and ocean front lots.

When the bank took over the property all old buildings, along the ocean front were razed and improvements were started on other property. Following the lead set by the bank the private owners of property in the city started a building improvement campaign. At present the Seal Tango parlor, in the business district and the Seal hotel are being repaired and painted and similar work is being done on other business buildings. It is also reported that a new store building will be constructed in the downtown area on property formerly owned by Mrs. Mary Loftus.

ZIONCHECK SET TO PUT PUERTO RICO IN PLACE

"If I have to land in Puerto Rico on my way to Haiti," he said, "I shall be fully armed. I shall engage in encounters, entirely unafraid."

In the presence of his bride and reporters Zioncheck flowed on at length, describing the people of Puerto Rico in unprintable language. He paused only to demand of startled officials: "Bring me another highball."

NATIONAL GUARD READY TO SUPPRESS DISORDER
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, May 14.—(UP)—National guardsmen stood by today to suppress any disorders after a day of rioting by students and other nationalist elements who desire independence from the United States.

Marines and Gov. Blanton Winship stood by awaiting the return of Rep. Marican A. Zioncheck (Dem., Wash.) on a threatened second visit to the island.

Zioncheck flew to the Virgin Islands yesterday afternoon, after an exchange of courtesies with Marvin H. McIntyre, secretary to President Roosevelt, and the governor.

Before he left in a marine airplane to give Virgin Islanders a look at himself as personifying the American congress, Zioncheck cabled McIntyre:

"Give me marine protection and I'll clean up this Puerto Rican situation in a week if necessary, without bloodshed."

McIntyre wired back that Winship was the president's representative and was competent to handle any situation that might arise.

He said the governor might think he had the nationalist situation in hand but that the governor had not—Zioncheck said he himself had—seen the American flag trampled by rioters.

"The Puerto Ricans are nice people," Zioncheck said. "But you have to understand them."

It was reported Gov. Winship told Zioncheck privately that if he continued his tactics here he would be run out of the island.

FROGS TO LEAP FOR FAME AND TITLE SUNDAY

and cash for his owner. He will be placed in a small circle at the center of the ring, and allowed three jumps. Judges will measure the distance from the takeoff to the end of the third jump. The frog that covers the most ground in those three hops will win the title.

Zip, a Stockton frog entered by Eddie Robinson, will be in the fighting to retain the championship. He cleared 12 feet, 2 1/2 inches last year to lead the pack. Leaping Lightning, also from Stockton, will try to best his 1935 mark of 11 feet, 7 1/2 inches, which brought second money to his owner, Louis Robinson.

Old Man Budweiser, still kicking around, probably will participate again, but no one expected much of the veteran whose 1932 record still stands.

There was little danger of the original frog jumping trick being repeated. The best of the entrants were watched closely, and the others did not have high enough to be fed buckshot.

As related by Mark Twain, the contest which made Angels Camp famous as the home of the jumping frog of Calaveras was held in 1850 and ended with two city slickers getting away with much of the camp's gold.

Smiley was proud of his jumper, Daniel, in those days. His boasting reached the ears of Pete Stag and Jimmy Ludrem, fresh from New York, and the city centurly bet Smiley they could pick up any old frog and beat his champion. They offered to let him choose a frog from the pond while they held Daniel.

Word of the wager spread swiftly and the eastern lads found more than enough money to cover their bets. The miners had faith in Smiley's amphibian.

Jim returned with a skinny critter and odds mounted on his own frog. The contest was started, and the skinny participant made a frightened takeoff. Daniel grunted and struggled but could not raise himself off the ground. Stag and Ludrem collected their bets and were well out of town before Smiley discovered that his Daniel's stomach was full of buckshot.

LAUGH THIS OFF

Sheriff James O'Reilly of Lucas county, Ohio, is having a big laugh here—at his own expense. The sheriff has revealed that he drank beer in Toledo with Harry Campbell, last of the Barker-Karpis gang suspects arrested, under the impression that Campbell was "Bob Miller." A picture of Campbell as "wanted" has been posted in the county jail for months. The sheriff says he won't resign.

STORY OF VICE BONDAGE TOLD IN COURT CASE

NEW YORK, May 14.—(UP)—A swarthy racketeer, powerful enough to take command of a vice ring with a single sentence, sat sullenly in supreme court today and heard nervous, overpaid girls tell of their bondage to a "vast underworld organization that drew $12,775,000 a year from the 'oldest profession.'"

From their crimson lips was poured an almost incredible story of 1,000 young women shifted about among 200 houses in the metropolis where they earned a total of $35,000 a night—only a fraction of which they were permitted to keep after the ring extracted its many fees and charges.

With cold eyes, Charles (Lucky) Luciano heard the testimony that the state hopes will place him in jail for a term long enough to break his power as one of the most potent gang leaders in the nation. Ranged alongside "Lucky"—so-called because he once stumbled back alive from a "ride"—were nine of his associates also charged with compulsory prostitution.

Dapper Thomas E. Dewey, appointed by Governor Herbert H. Lehman a year ago as a special prosecutor to clean up rackets, made it clear that he regarded Luciano one of the main quarries of his inquiry.

He told how the racketeer—who spent $100,000 fighting extradition from Hot Springs, Ark.—never saw any of his minor vice employees but kept in touch with the business from a luxurious suite in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in which he supervised half a dozen other racketeers.

It was in 1933, Dewey said, that some of his associates impressed Luciano with the money to be made in vice which was then operated by a loosely-knit combination of "bookers." These bookers were summoned to a restaurant.

"You guys are through," Luciano said. "I'm giving this business to Little Davy."

"Such was the power of his spoken word," the prosecutor said, "that they folded their tents, collected their final week's money and quit business. Little Davy then organized a colossal racket."

David "Little Davy" Bettillo is also a defendant.

HUGHES LEAVES CHICAGO ON FLIGHT TO COAST

CHICAGO, May 14.—(UP)—Howard Hughes, wealthy young airplane pilot and racing enthusiast, took off from the municipal airport at 1:05 p. m. (CST) today on a non-stop flight to Los Angeles with 550 gallons of gasoline aboard. Hughes disclaimed any intention of trying to break speed records enroute.

Intimates of Fairbanks and Miss Pickford were said to be divided into two camps, one determined to ignore the former Lady Ashley and the other willing to meet her before passing judgment.

SINGLE LAND VALUE TAX IS EXPLAINED AT FORUM MEET

The proposed abolition of the Sales tax and substitution of a single Land Value tax was explained last night by R. E. Chadwick, speaker for the Forum for Political and Economic Education, held in the Unitarian church, Eighth and Bush streets.

W. H. Blanding, chairman of the sponsoring committee in charge of the Forum, presided as chairman and Ben Tarver introduced the speaker. Chadwick is executive secretary for the Sales Tax Repeal Association in Los Angeles.

The proposed tax on land values, he said, would forestall a lot of "crack pot" ideas that have been advanced during the past three or five years and would provide tax relief on improvements and tangibles.

The first year the new tax is effective, if approved by the voters, improvements on property used as a homestead are exempt from taxation. This exemption, he said, would exempt the majority of homes in the state. In the second year the exemption would be $1000, plus 20 per cent of the value of the remaining improvements and tangible personal property. At the end of five years, Chadwick said, all improvements and tangible personal property will be exempt.

Chadwick denied charges made by forces opposing the tax plan that under the proposed land value tax all property in the state would be confiscated within five years for non-payment of taxes.

"We can forget the millions of unemployed," the speaker said, "but in time they will demand their rights and the demand will come through some form of demagoguery. They will do something as it is only a threat against society that makes us do anything along economic lines."

He said that people have challenged the capitalist and competitive systems declaring they have failed. "If we mean the wise use of capital, when we refer to the capitalist system," he said, "it has never had a chance to function. The profit motive is heading in the right direction and might lead us out of the present crisis. I believe in free competition and in private initiative and believe in public ownership only in cases where monopoly obtains."

He said that the land value tax program would eliminate special privilege groups making it possible to operate private enterprise on a cooperative basis and solve the unemployment problem.

The proposed land value tax measure, Chadwick pointed out, would stabilize the value of land values and prevent speculation in real estate and place the tax burden on the shoulders of those who profited most through increased population.

FARM BUREAU PLANS "DARBY" AT BIG PICNIC

FOR SUPERVISOR

Women of the Orange County Farm Bureau are planning a Kentucky "Darby" to be staged as a part of the program to be featured Saturday at the Farm Bureau picnic in Irvine park.

Details of this program feature are being shrouded in secrecy, according to W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor and chairman of the games and stunts committee. He said that it was a real feature and had been given the feature spot on the program.

Cory said that the program has been divided into two parts; one for adults and the other for boys and girls.

Members of the games and stunts committee, assisting Cory are: Mrs. Anna Linnartz and H. Clay Kellogg. Mrs. Linnartz will have charge of the children's games which will start immediately after lunch. A committee of 4-H club leaders and senior members will assist her.

Following the presentation of the Farm Bureau pageant and from 2:30 to 3:00 p. m., there will be a series of stunts on the stage of the pavilion, the feature of which is the Home Department Derby. If it is good to laugh after eating a hearty meal, everyone should feel fine after this, and other stunts between members living east of the river and those living west of the river will be run off with Ray Maricle in charge.

For those that wish to dance, music will be provided in the pavilion.

Brain Twizzlers

By Prof. J. D. Flint

A psychology professor took three students into a room and said: "I am going to blindfold each of you and while you are blindfolded I may or may not touch each of you on the forehead. If I touch you on the forehead I may or may not leave a spot. After this is done the blindfolds will be removed and each of you that sees a spot on the forehead of either or both of the others must stamp his foot. As soon as any one of you can then prove conclusively to yourself that you have a spot on your own forehead you are to leave the room."

After the students had been blindfolded the professor put a spot on each forehead, removed the blindfolds, and departed. When the blindfolds were removed the students looked at each other and after carefully observing everything each stamped his foot. After a considerable length of time one of them left the room. How did he know that he had a spot on his forehead?

Answer to Yesterday's Twizzler
He placed one board diagonally across the corner of the meat. The second he placed from the first board to the other side of the meat as the diagram shows.

DRAINS WHISKEY FLASK ON WAY TO JAIL WITH OFFICER

When your car collides with another and you pick yourself from the debris of your overturned car and a traffic officer arrests you on a charge of drunk driving, just be nonchalant! Take out your flask and drain it!

That was the philosophy of Victor P. Gill, 37, of 930 North Palm street, Anaheim, today, as his light pickup truck collided with a parked car said to belong to Mary Ringham, Route 2, Orange, in the 1400 block of South Main about 10:15 a. m. today.

As he crawled from the debris unscathed Motorcycle Officer Ed Lentz arrested him and, in lieu of any other conveyance, ordered the man to straddle the rear seat of his motorcycle.

"You're intoxicated, aren't you?" asked the officer.

"No indeed!" answered Gill as, according to the officer, he staggered toward the motorcycle.

With feet dragging on the street and, in nonchalant mood, Gill accompanied the officer. As they were proceeding down the thoroughfare, Officer Lentz glanced around at his companion. Gill, a painter, had just pulled a bottle from inside his work clothes, and was gurgling it down—down to the very last drop—Lentz said. Then Gill smiled somewhat like a naughty child and settled down to ride to town—right down Main street.

Given a doctor's medical examination, Gill was pronounced "very drunk." "Why, you can't take me to jail!" exclaimed Gill as Officer W. B. Moreland escorted Lentz in taking Gill to jail. "I passed all of the examination and the doctor found me not guilty!"

"That isn't what he told us," said Lentz simply.

JAYSEE FIESTA PLAY WILL BE GIVEN FRIDAY

In preparation for the Fiesta Day play at Santa Ana Junior college Friday and Saturday evenings, the cast of "The Command Performance" by C. Stafford Dicks will conduct its final dress rehearsal tonight at Willard auditorium.

Work on the stage production has been in process for a month and will be concluded tomorrow night when they entertain the guests from the various county high schools at 8:15.

Under the direction of Ernest Crozier Phillips, drama instructor, the play is being polished in an effort to bring it up to the level of previous Fiesta plays.

As a fitting climax to a successful year of drama, the performance will be given the following evening for the general public and anyone students. Prices have been set at 25 and 35 cents.

Modern settings and costumes will be employed in the production of the two mythical countries, Moldavia and Wallachia, with the final scene being set in the full court regalia of a military setting. Stage sets were designed by Norman Mennes and the art department, and the costumes were selected from a Hollywood costume company.

Co-starring in the leads of the play are Agnes Brady, Princess Katerina of Wallachia, and Arthur Coleman, Prince Alexis of Moldavia, the royal lovers. As Peter Kradtich, an actor, Coleman enacts the dual lead of the man who is helped to settle the differences between the two countries instead of the true prince.

Count Vellenburg, a suave, subtle, and colorful figure, is portrayed by Lawrence Newlan, who maintains the power behind the Moldavian throne and the country's chancellor. The comedy roles are filled by Kenneth Stowell and Jeanne Kay, the King and Queen of Wallachia.

Betty Jane Moore is slated for the Queen of Moldavia who resents the interference of lords in her kingdom and the slanderous talk about her son, Alexis.

Other parts are carried by Jim Doyle, Billie Bachman, Rewick Ludlum, Jason Hodge, Jeannette Rodman, Joe Yocam and Emmert Morgan.

4-H CLUBS PLAN TWO EVENTS IN MAY AND JUNE

There are two outstanding events on the calendar of 4-H clubs in Orange county for this month and June. The first event is the club leaders' conference to be held May 23 in Long Beach and the second is the summer camp to be held June 28 to July 1, at Camp Rokill.

Mrs. A. F. Schroeder and Miss Frances Liles are arranging Orange county club leaders' participation in the leaders' conference to be held in Long Beach. For many years this conference has been an outstanding event for club leaders and those interested in 4-H club activities. The program this year will include both instruction and recreation and a large attendance is anticipated from this county.

Ross Crane, assistant farm advisor, is being assisted in arrangements for the summer camp by Miss Frances Liles. Crane and Miss Liles are anticipating a record attendance at the camp of Orange county boys and girls, members of the organization. It is expected that Woodbridge Metcalf, extension forestry specialist, will attend the camp in the capacity of camp leader.

RAY ADKINSON IS CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Substantiating the prediction made several weeks ago, by his friends, that he would seek the Democratic nomination to congress from this district, Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, today, formally announced his candidacy.

In his statement Adkinson briefly declared his candidacy and declared:

"I am supporting President Roosevelt in his valiant attempt to bring the nation out of a great emergency and the guarantee to every individual the right to live his own life.

"I believe the primary law was adopted to permit any citizen the right to seek public office, independently and without interference from any special group.

"A political campaign should be based entirely on a direct statement of principles. Mud throwing is a weapon used to confuse the public and any candidate who resorts to this method of attack merely lowers the confidence of people in his public service."

Adkinson was born and reared in Orange county and has served in the Santa Ana and Orange county schools for many years. Formerly a member of the high school faculty he has been county superintendent of schools for more than five years.

RESIDENT HERE 25 YEARS IS CALLED

Mrs. Nannie Creek, 81, a resident of Santa Ana for a quarter of a century, died this morning at her home, 1334 East Third street, after an extended illness. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 10 a. m. in the chapel at Winbiger's mortuary, with interment to follow in Santa Ana cemetery.

Mrs. Creek is survived by four daughters and two sons. Surviving daughters are: Mrs. Sylvia Meador and Mrs. Cleo Rineearson, both of Santa Ana; Mrs. Fluty Kendrick, Missouri and Mrs. Stella Lane, of Long Beach. Sons surviving her are: Delbert and Ellis Creek, living in Oklahoma.

FROM NOW ON use the automatic reminder

Cars do break down. Sometimes many blocks, maybe miles from home or garage. And often the cause is a little but important detail of lubrication that someone forgot.

Now there is a service that won't let you forget.

Just tell your Smiling Associated Dealer that your memory sometimes lets you down. Quickly, then, your car is entered in his fool-proof "Record and Reminder System." There, too, your future car-worries are filed; from now on, all you have to do is drive.

For your Associated Dealer takes over your responsibilities. Sees to it that your car is serviced regularly—that there's enough oil, enough lubricant in the transmission, that battery, steering gear, lights, spark plugs, fan-belt, tires, are checked—that everything about your car is just right for you to enjoy all the pleasures and the security of Associated motoring.

Lubrication that never fails

Associated factory-specified lubrication protects your car point-by-point, exactly according to the specifications laid down by the car's manufacturer. Cars last longer, run easier, with Associated factory-specified lubrication. Its regular use extends car life and smoothness beyond belief.

Specify Cylol Motor Oil

PLEDGES—

WASHINGTON, May 14.—A fancy game of diplomatic window dressing is being arranged by European diplomats for the benefit of the man in the street. Best dressed scene so far is that disclosing Britannia asking Hitler whether he is going to live up to future treaties he signs.

No one has laughed at it yet, and Hitler did not indicate that he considered the question insulting.

The reason is, everyone knows the answer, and the diplomats privately know the purpose. Hitler's response will be the same as that of anyone who is asked: "You are an honest man, aren't you?"

The stock diplomatic answer to such an inquiry would be that Hitler will respect his treaties just as long as other signatories respect the letter and spirit of them. He could even promise non-aggression in the east under that condition. Then, when he is ready to attack in the east, he can contend that others have violated the spirit of the treaty, and his guns will go forward.

This is accepted diplomatic practice. No diplomat here has any doubt that it will be followed to the letter in the existing situation.

Note—The main inside purpose of the British questionnaires was to stall for time while the French government is being reorganized as result of the elections.

THE RECORD—

If such assured expectations seem to be far-fetched, consider not only Hitler's wastebasket full of torn treaties, but that of Mussolini. Hitler asserts that the treaties he tore up were dishonorable shackles imposed on his defeated people, but Mussolini could not use that excuse. He was on the winning side.

In October, 1933, the Argentine anti-war pact was signed, pledging non-recognition of territory acquired by force as a definite commitment. Italy adhered to the treaty in March, 1934, and started sweeping up Ethiopia by force 18 months later.

Italy also signed the Kellogg pact, renouncing war and pledging the settlement of all international differences by pacific means. She adhered to the covenant of the League of Nations, pledging non-aggression until a league committee of neutrals was given opportunity to arbitrate. She signed the poison gas treaty, forever renouncing that barbaric weapon.

of warfare, and yet turned mustard gas on the Ethiopians to defeat them, and officially admitted it. (Incidentally, she used the stock excuse, Ethiopian atrocities, as the reason for the gas.)

The situation is adequately presented by the fact that, while the U. S. and every other nation has signed the poison gas treaty, all are experimenting in the use of gases and in defense against them.

NEW YORK

DOUBTFUL

A group of key Democratic leaders were summoned to a private pep meeting in New York last week. They came from all sections of the state and representatives were also present from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and as far away as Ohio. Most of them were majors or captains in the Democratic army rather than generals or sergeants—the inconspicuous but important city chiefs whose primary responsibility is to organize their district leaders and "get out the vote."

They were told about all things to beware of overconfidence—that they are in for a serious fight and must hustle as never before if they want to keep their jobs. They were also instructed not to waste time trying to make converts—to concentrate instead on establishing personal contact with every voter favorable to Roosevelt in their territories (especially young voters) and making sure that they get to the polls in November.

The most significant angle of the session was a special exhortation to the New Yorkers present. "Jim Farley says New York is the most doubtful state in the Union—and he's right. We're going to take a trimming here if we don't step on the gas." Allowing for the exaggeration of a political pep talk, shrewd political observers figure that's a pretty accurate statement.

STRENGTHENS

Settlement of the anthracite coal labor dispute was a distinct triumph for John Lewis and his United Mine Workers. Most important from their viewpoint was establishment of the union check-off throughout the industry. That makes the closed shop an accomplished fact.

The miners also gain a reduction of working hours with no corresponding reduction in pay, effective in 1937. They didn't get the pay increase they asked for, but that was really a straw man set up for bargaining purposes. Lewis' main objective was to consolidate his grip on hard coal labor—and in that respect he got exactly what he wanted.

The anthracite industry is dominated by a handful of conservative bankers and railroad men. Insiders understand they gave in on the closed shop because it was the only alternative to complete disruption of their working forces. A strike would have been effective, and anthracite has been losing too much ground to other fuels to risk further weakening of its competitive position. Lewis had the whip hand all along and both sides knew it. The victory greatly strengthens his prestige in his battle with Bill Green and the craft unionists for control of organized labor.

KNIFE

New York political sharpshins say that the subsurface friction which has developed at Albany between Governor Lehman and Democratic leaders in the legislature traces largely to revival of the old-time understanding between Tammany and upstate Republicans.

Tammany has never been vitally interested in Democratic control of the state—especially when the Democratic state organization is in hostile hands, as at present. Its primary concern is to rule the roost in New York City, and the Roosevelt-Lehman-Farley leadership certainly hasn't helped it any from that angle. So it's a natural for Tammany senators and assemblymen to give the G. O. P. a helping hand behind the scenes in exchange for Republican cooperation on matters affecting the metropolis.

Spreading operations by the Orange County Water District and natural absorption in the bed of the Santa Ana river were responsible for sinking of several thousand acres of storm water into the underground basin during the two major rainstorms of the season. It was reported by Flood Control Engineer M. N. Thompson in a communication yesterday afternoon to directors of the water district.

For the period from February 3, 1936, to March 13, 1936, inclusive, the total flow passing Yorba bridge was 8192 acre feet, the report showed. Total flow during the same period passing the Anaheim-Olive bridge was 3246 acre feet, and the total flow passing the Chapman avenue bridge was 2086 acre feet.

Figures on the period from February 2, 1936, to February 19, 1936, inclusive, showed that the total flow passing Prado was 9228 acre feet. The total flow passing Yorba bridge was 8670 acre feet; 3212 acre feet at Anaheim-Olive bridge; 2084 acre feet at Chapman avenue bridge and 1946 acre feet passing Fifth street bridge in Santa Ana. This last figure represents the amount of water which went to the ocean. The total flow passing Baker street on Santiago creek was 252 acre feet, it was stated.

Discussion on the district's joining the Metropolitan Water District took place at the meeting yesterday. Director Roy Browning said that the directors should be careful, and should make sure that there is no danger of a deficiency on the MWD bonds reverting to this section. If Los Angeles goes on a tax strike, he said, the local district should make sure that the total indebtedness does not fall on this county. He suggested it might be better for the local district to purchase surplus MWD water than to join the district.

Director William Mauerhan asked what action had been taken regarding the plan to hold a meeting of the board of supervisors. Farm Bureau and water board members to discuss the water ordinance of the county. The water board had adopted a resolution requesting a joint meeting to develop a more satisfactory ordinance. Mauerhan claims the present county ordinance does not keep the gun clubs from wasting water. No meeting has yet been held, it was brought out, but a meeting probably will be held in the near future.

Directors Browning and Mauerhan were authorized to do some work in the Santa Ana river channel, to remove plant growths now in the bed of the river.

Oakie Film On Double Bill At Broadway Today

A new double feature program opens an engagement today at the Broadway theater. One of the films is "Florida Special," with Jack Oakie and Sally Eilers in the leading roles, and "Ride of the Marines," filmed entirely at the San Diego Marine Corps base.

In "Florida Special" Oakie plays the part of a devil-may-care newspaper reporter. Shinghailed by Kent Taylor, wealthy playboy companion of Oakie's, the reporter is forced to desert his newspaper to accompany the youth. On the trip Oakie accidentally runs into a sensational story that proves the scoop of the year. Disappearance of a million dollars worth of gemstones considerable excitement. "Ride of the Marines" has a large cast of favorites, including Charles Bickford, Florence Rice, Billy Burrud, Robert Allen and Ward Bond. It relates the story of an orphaned urchin who becomes the charge and mascot of the leathernecks. The picture is said to be a happy combination of pathos, humor, romance and stirring military pageantry.

NYA BAND WILL BE AT HEAD OF JAYSEE PARADE

Santa Ana Junior College's Fiesta Day parade, beginning tomorrow morning at 10:30, will be led by the National Youth administration boy's band under direction of Thomas D. Collins and Assistant Bruce Mayhugh, the bandmen announced today. The band, numbering 40 pieces, will be dressed in black and white ties and varicolored sashes for the occasion.

In the arena, during the registration time, from 2 to 3:30 p. m., the band will present a concert and will also play at 12 and 3:30, including in the programs an accordion duet by Archie Beadles and Louis Diharce, NYA band members.

The program scheduled by the band is: March, "2nd Regiment, R. R. Hall; overture, "The Bristol Rose," LaValle; selection, "Mile-Modiste," Victor Herbert; accordion duet, "La Dolandrina," Serradell; "Himno Nacional de Mexico," Nuno; Mexican march, "Zacatecas," Codina; Porto Rican dance, "El Dorado," Klefer; overture, "Eagle Garden," Kings, and march, "Independencia," R. B. Hall.

The variety committee of the California Avocado association, in its report to the annual meeting recommended five avocado varieties that merited commercial standing—they are the Fuerte, Puebla, Nabal, Dickinson and Anaheim.

In commenting on these varieties, the committee stated that the Fuerte variety comprises approximately 70 per cent of the present avocado acreage in California. In marketability, it is unsurpassed. It produces in the most desirable season (the winter and early spring) and has a long picking season, which enables the crop to be handled in an orderly manner.

In considering a variety to replace it, these two facts are most vital. At present there is no new variety in sight that meets these needs. The Fuerte is definitely unsuited to the coastal and interior belts. It does its best in selected portions of the intermediate areas.

The Puebla is a good-quality fruit for the late fall and early winter seasons. Of a good size, flavor and quality, it has about the same reliability as the Fuerte in the intermediate and interior belts. It is not satisfactory in the coastal belt.

The Nabal is a summer fruit of fine quality but rather too large. The trees are generally vigorous and upright and somewhat tender to frost as are most Guatemalans. With large plantings just coming into bearing, it may be easy to overload the market at its season. Its production habits are not fully established, but it seems definitely an alternate-bearer. Its regional range of adaptation is not yet determined.

The Dickinson is a summer fruit, sometimes of fine quality but often affected with a pink discoloration and bitterness. Because of its very thick, hard shell and the problem of telling when it is soft enough to eat, it is difficult to market. It has been an excellent producer and a profitable one on the coastal plain and is a reliable bearer there, but is definitely unsuited to the other areas.

The Anaheim is a late spring fruit; an upright, slender tree of reasonable vigor; it is probably the most reliable producer. It regularly turns off great quantities of large, poor-quality fruit, which often have difficulty in passing the standardization requirements before they have to be packed. It is most difficult to market where large quantities are concerned. It is best suited to the coastal and intermediate areas.

The intermediate area embraces Tustin, La Habra Heights, Anaheim, Fullerton, Brea and Yorba Linda districts in Orange county. The Orange county representatives on the variety committee are Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, and H. E. Marsh, La Habra. Carter Barrett of Pasadena is chairman.

GAIN RECORDED OFFICERS FOR WALTON CLUB TO HOLD BREAKFAST IN CITY FUNDS FIRST BAPTIST FOR PAST YEAR CHURCH NAMED

ANAHEIM, May 14.—The fiscal year for the city of Anaheim opened May 1 with a balance in the city treasury exceeding last year's balance by $34,786.41 and a balance in the general fund $31,206.05 greater than a year ago, according to a report made to city council Tuesday night by City Treasurer Charles A. Boese.

The fiscal year for the city closes April 30. There was a balance of $188,808.84 in the city treasury, of which $138,017.34 was in the general fund on that date. Reports showed that delinquent taxes outstanding amount to only $8049.04 as compared with approximately $23,000 delinquent four years ago at the same time. City Clerk Charles E. Griffith collected during April, $1514.31 in delinquent taxes; $765.77 in personal property tax and $8 for vital statistics.

The amount of $2363.81 was taken in by the auditor during the month. Miss Etta Williams, tax collector, reported $23,513.18 collected during the month and $84,805.63 as her total collections for the year.

Revenue from the public service department during the month amounted to $19,453.87, of which $11,569.10 was for light; $3182.64 for power; $4648.83 for water and $2 for penalties. Delinquencies in that department on April 30 amounted to $1063.82 or $39.96 less than at the beginning of the month.

Sixteen light or power wiring permits were issued netting the city $122.80.

City Electrician Vard Hannum reported in his activities of the light, water and power department for April the completion of the WPA project, in extending the water mains. The project, estimated at $11,203, actually cost $11,716.20, due to the inclusion of pipe for mains not figured in the original job. Of this amount the federal government put in $687.89 and the city, $5029.31.

Bids on city advertising were accepted from both the Anaheim Gazette and the Anaheim Bulletin as in former years, the Gazette's bid of 72½ cents per inch for the first insertion and 42½ for subsequent insertions being accepted for all advertising which is not required by law to be published in a daily and the Bulletin's rate of 75 and 50 cents accepted for all advertising required to be published in a daily.

The council took under advisement the 11 bids on city lamps.

RAIL MAN SAYS: I NEVER FELT AS FINE BEFORE

Mosby's Tablets Quickly Relieved 8 Awful Years of Gas and Bloat

MR. STRINGFELLOW

Mr. W. A. Stringfellow, of 2351 Porter Ave., Ogden, Utah, widely-known railway man, is one of the many people who publicly praise Mosby's Tablets, which is the Great Tablet Compound for Acid Indigestion and Bowel Constipation now being introduced in Santa Ana at McCoy's Drug Stores, 108 West Fourth and 302 West Fourth. Mr. Stringfellow recently said:

"For more than eight years I suffered from gas and bloat. I was getting worse. Then I found MOSBY'S TABLETS. They have given me relief. Now I have no gas or bloat. I never felt as relieved in all these eight years as I do now, since I took MOSBY'S TABLETS. I can't praise them enough."

RELIEF IN 12 HOURS

MOSBY'S TABLETS neutralize HCL, gas, bloat, and swelling in the bowels and intestines. They give the bowels and intestines a GREAT CLEANSE and bring out the foul, acidulous fluid that causes headaches, skin eruptions, foul breath, coated tongue, thick, bad taste and worn-out feeling. Relief comes OVERNIGHT. Weak, miserable people often feel like different men and women in 12 HOURS' TIME.

COSTS ONE CENT A DAY

MOSBY'S TABLETS cost little more than one cent a day. So don't hesitate. Get Mosby's Tablets TODAY—at McCoy's Drug Stores, 108 West Fourth and 302 West Fourth. Also sold by McCoy's Drug Stores in Whittier, Balboa and Huntington Beach, and by all druggists.

MRS. G. C. FLACK

The local public at the McCoy Drug Co., 108 West Fourth Street, this city.

"I suffered terrible agony with indigestion before I knew of Gly-Cas," continued Mrs. Flack. "Gas formed in my stomach in abundance after every meal. I ate to such an extent that my heart was rapidly being affected. I could not rest at night; many times I would sit up in bed to get my breath. Pains were continually shooting through my chest, was terribly nervous and finally my appetite failed me completely. What I did for myself to eat would not agree with me. I tried many different kinds of medicines, actually did my best to get relief but grew worse each day instead. When I finally began this new Gly-Cas I was almost without hope of ever getting well again—but within a WEEK I found to my great and pleasant surprise that Gly-Cas was DIFFERENT from the ordinary medicines of today—it gave me RESULTS."

"Gly-Cas seemed to go directly to the cause of my years of poor health and suffering and take it entirely out of my system," continued Mrs. Flack. "Then, too, Gly-Cas did its work in a most natural manner. Those attacks of indigestion and gas have gone entirely and no longer trouble me in the least. My appetite is now fine, eat anything I wish without any ill effects afterwards, rest well at night and feel fine in every way. No wonder so many people are praising Gly-Cas so highly—it deserves it all and more too. Gly-Cas is the first medicine I have ever found that did not disappoint me with its results."

The Gly-Cas Man is daily meeting crowds of local people at the McCoy Drug Co., 108 West Fourth Street, Santa Ana, where he is introducing and explaining the action of this new herbal remedy.

Gly-Cas, $1 box, $5, by mail, plus 30 box tax. Cash must accompany order.

UNEARTH SKULL OF MAN LIVING 100 YEARS AGO

The crumbling skull of an aged man, believed to have lived and died along the shores of the Pacific ocean more than 100 years ago, was unearthed yesterday at Huntington Beach. It started a police investigation which ended within two hours.

As Marcelino Salazar was digging a drainage ditch on the sloping lands on his place, a quarter-mile east of Huntington Beach boulevard on Ellis avenue, he uncovered the skull which crumbled to his touch. Police Chief H. L. Grant was called and he, in turn, asked the sheriff's office to assist in a checkup. Deputy Sheriff Janis Music, assigned to the case, said when he brought the skull to the identification bureau here, it was probably that of some aged Indian or Mexican who died a natural death more than 100 years ago. But nine teeth were left in the lower jaw and three or four in the upper. Officer Music believed years of erosion on the hillside had lessened the depth of a forgotten grave. Chief Criminal Deputy Merle Dean recalled a road improvement project of some four years ago in which an entire Indian graveyard was uncovered by construction men.

JIMMY FIDLER in —HOLLYWOOD—

HOLLYWOOD, May 14.—Some personal observations: Robert Montgomery rarely sits; he sprawls. At tables, for instance, his feet may be found away over here on this side, under my chair. I have noticed that Edmund Lowe will quickly change to a new subject when the name of his late wife, Lilyan Tashman, is mentioned. After all this time and despite remarriage, he still remembers. Gary Cooper never answers an important question immediately; he sometimes refuses to give an opinion until he has studied the subject of the query overnight.

Lois Wilson in real life resembles a school teacher. That is quite proper, because she was a school teacher before she essayed the movies. Joan Bennett's eyes are the bluest of blue; involuntarily, I glance quickly at the sky whenever I meet her. Just by way of comparison, shrewdest showmen are those who do not try to be wholehog; I.e. Douglas Fairbanks, Bing Crosby, Rudy Vallee, Joan Crawford. They remain quietly in background if another performance is helping the show. Ever notice how stars approaching the double chin age lift their heads to straighten out necklines.

This season will see the scantiest bathing suits ever at Malibu; all the movie bachelors are rushing for summer beach homes. Jean Harlow is still nice to autograph seekers; I saw her halt in the middle of Hollywood boulevard, with motors and street cars whipping by on all sides, to sign a book for two girls. Katharine Hepburn may dodge cameramen and interviewers, but when one catches up with her, she is tickled pink. Katty likes to win, but she is a good loser.

An annual Hollywood custom is the mid-spring dash for copies of the Motion Picture Almanac, a trade publication which lists thumbnail biographies of the stars. The Almanac, whenever possible, prints the full birthdates of the personnel of the film industry, and an amusing hour may be spent skimming through old and new issues of the book to observe the year-changes many stars effect. One actress now in her thirties, for example, lists the year of her birth, 1908. A copy of the Almanac printed three years ago listed her as born in 1906. And another periodical printed in 1929, gave 1904 as the year of her birth.

Few actresses older than 24 or 25 will reveal the year of their birth. At their requests, publishers of the Almanac often withhold this information. On the contrary, actresses past fifty seem to be proud of their years, and almost invariably they quote ages freely. Actors are not so finicky. Wallace Beery, Clark Gable, Jimmy Cagney, Lionel Barrymore, Fred Astaire, William Powell, and most of the male artists make no secret of their years.

Hollywood gives queer twists to life's tale. A few days ago, I chanced onto a set where Mae Clarke and Phillips Holmes were enacting fervent love scenes together. As I watched them laughing and chatting between camera shots, my mind flipped back a few years. In 1932, I think it was, Mae and Phillips were very chummy; many believed them in love. They were returning home in Holmes's car one foggy night when there was a crash with another machine. Mae's jaw was broken in three places, and she doled out some $2,500 for medical care, for which she promptly sued Holmes. There followed one of the most bitter trials in Hollywood history, with harsh accusations on both sides. And today, love scenes together!

ANNUAL SCOUT CAMPORAL PUT OFF ONE WEEK

The big inter-state Boy Scout Camporal scheduled for May 29, 30 and 31 has been postponed a week and will be held on June 5, 6 and 7. It was announced today by Harrison E. White, Orange county Scout executive.

The big Camporal is expected to attract around 2500 Boy Scouts, who will take part in various camping and outdoor events planned. The Scouts who will come here will be those who have been chosen because of their outstanding work in Scouting.

White said today the event has been postponed to avoid conflict with activities of other patriotic organizations. There will be no change in the program plans for the Camporal, White said.

The event will be held at Camp Irvine, Boy Scout camp near Irvine Park, said to be one of the finest Boy Scout camps in the nation.

A group of 50 Scoutmasters from various Orange county troops met at Camp Irvine last night to outline plans for the Camporal and to discuss other plans for summer Scouting activities. The meeting was preceded by a dinner.

Burglary Charges Against Patton Are Dismissed

After hearing a burglary complaint against Edgar L. Patton, 1211 South Parton, charged with taking coins, pens and pencils and trinkets valued at $175.50 from the home of his friend, Joe Looney, Justice Kenneth Morrison yesterday afternoon dismissed the case and sentenced Patton on a vagrancy charge to which he pleaded guilty.

The burglary complaint was dismissed on motion of the district attorney's office after Looney, it is said, made a written statement that "I believe my old friend did not do this intentionally."

The vagrancy charge alleged too consistent use of intoxicants, Patton was sentenced to six months in the county jail, five months suspended for two years during which time Patton must be on good behavior and refrain from use of intoxicants. Police arrested Patton on complaint of Looney.

The latter's property was returned to him, officers said.

STREET PARADE PLANNED: WILL CROWN RULERS

With sashes and boleros and other striking costumes, Santa Ana junior college students in keeping with early California days will celebrate the ninth annual Fiesta Day tomorrow.

The day's colorful spectacle of early Spanish vaqueros and senoritas will commence at 10:30 from College Hall with a parade to the arena behind the Board of Education building.

The contingent of jaycee students will escort the rulers of the day, Don John Ramirez and Dona Lois Murray, in the traditional escort through the downtown district and then to the recently constructed arena. The major attractions of the day will be held in this enclosure.

Accompanying the students will be the National Youth Administration band directed by Thomas E. Collins, and a troupe of equestrians.

Crown Don and Dona Father Owen of St. Anthony's seminary, Santa Barbara, will crown the Don and Dona at the coronation ceremonies following the parade. He will then speak before the assembled students on "La Franciscana," the oldest family in California.

The featured speaker of the morning's program will be Robert Ernest Cowan, author, lecturer and bibliophile, who will address the students on "The Early Spanish Families in California." He will be followed by several musical numbers by Eben Cos, baritone, who has for years been one of the outstanding singers on the Pacific coast.

Terry E. Stephenson, Orange county treasurer, will give a short talk on the "Early Spanish Families of Orange County" preceding several Spanish music and dance numbers. During the program Maria LeBrun will present the audience several vocal numbers. An accordion duet will be given by Archie Beadles and Louis Dharce. During the Fiesta Day luncheon at the Y. W. C. A., the students will be entertained with more Spanish music from a string ensemble.

To Have Bullfight At the afternoon program to which the graduating seniors of the Orange county high schools are invited, arrangements have been made to have a bullfight and several other features.

The guests will be greeted at the different tables provided for the graduates of the various schools where they will be given their free tickets for the dinner, dance, and the Fiesta play, "The Command Performance." Prior to the free dinner for the seniors there will be jaycee students to show them around the campus telling in detail the different facilities offered by the college.

Gil Evans and his famous Balboa orchestra will present the rhythm at the dance given after the dinner at the American Legion Hall, Third and Birch streets.

This may seem like a Miracle!

An instrument that would be a miracle-maker in another day... an instrument that locates and measures the CAUSE of sickness, and then DESTROYS it!... without pain, quickly, permanently!

The RADIONIC INSTRUMENT!... the Calibro Magnowave!

Hundreds of people in this community have brought us their sicknesses only as a last resort, with doubt or downright disbelief. Many have had perfect health restored almost OVERNIGHT! All have found RESULTS at the least possible expense.

Almost all of our Radionic patients are willing to TELL YOU of their experiences if you care to inquire. But you can LEARN for YOURSELF today by starting with a Radionic Examination at a small nominal charge.

HUMMING BIRD RETURNS

Back again after more than a year's absence, a hummingbird which built its nest on a long tendril of ivy in the Walter Meier nursery, West Chapman avenue, Orange, the summer of 1934, returned last week to begin building operations in exactly the same spot she chose before. The vine covers an archway but a few feet from the highway. The bird left late in the fall of 1934. This year she brought another mother bird with her, possibly the young bird she raised in the nursery, but the younger mother still is undecided whether to build or not to build. Building operations on the old tenant's nest are well under way.

HOPALONG CASSIDY RETURNS TO STATE

"The Eagles' Brood," the latest screen interpretation of that famous character of thrilling fiction stories, Hopalong Cassidy, will be shown at Walker's State theater tomorrow and Saturday. William Boyd is the star of this film, which presents Hopalong as a peace officer in action along the border.

The program also includes "Unrelated Relations," a comedy; a news reel; a chapter of "The Miracle Rider," with Tom Mix, and a color cartoon, "Mickey's Orphan's Picnic."

The Kiddies club will hold its regular weekly session at 1 p. m. Saturday, with ice cream for every member present.

"Millions in the Air" and "Dante's Inferno" show for the last times tonight.

The scarab, a beetle, was regarded in Egypt as a symbol of immortality.

The play for the students of the high schools will be given at Willard auditorium.

The day's activities will be traced in the Fiesta Magazine, the only one of its kind and the third annual edition printed by El Don, college weekly publication. The copy selling for 10 cents will contain the articles written by several noted California men, namely, Carl I. Wheat, of Los Angeles, and others.

Costumes for the men are to be rented from the college and the women will have their costumes made themselves.

The program for the day's events were supervised by Harris Warren with the aid of Thomas H. Glenn, faculty advisor.

Presses Start Grinding On Backyard Newspaper

BY KENNETH ADAMS

The presses will start grinding this week on the first issue of the annual summer edition of "The Wit," backyard vacation publication published and edited by George Hart Jr. and Ted Glucas, associate, veteran newspapermen of Willard Junior High school.

Note: Hart family lawn mower used to represent grinding of the presses.

Founded last summer as the Vacation Daily News, the name of the paper was changed this summer to The Wit. There is a change in the name, since a disgruntled neighborhood contributor, whose story was rejected, suggested that The Wit was a good name, since anybody knew that it required two half-wits to make a Wit.

The Wit will be a newspaper of fairly general circulation, it also will be non-profit, contrary to the plans of the editors, who are not at present aware of that fact. However, it will be non-profit, as proved by last year's experience, when the net returns failed to cover breakage on the typewriter of the editor's old man. As a result of last year's deficit, much of this year's copy will be turned out in long-hand.

The paper boasts NEA feature service (slightly used) besides local coverage, including sports and politics. The initial issue will contain a special interview with B. Z. McKinney, prominent local attorney and Democratic leader, who predicted re-election of President Roosevelt and then soothed his Republican interviewers by setting up the cokes.

ORANGE COUNTY GROWERS PLAN NEW PROGRAM

Growers throughout Orange county are preparing to organize a permanent county agricultural conservation association for administering locally the farm program authorized by the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment act adopted by congress in February of this year, according to W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor.

Community meetings will be held, at which a community committee of three members and an alternate will be elected. One of the three regular community committees will be made chairman.

The chairman of all such community committees in the county will constitute the county board of directors of the County Agricultural Conservation association. This county board of directors will elect a county committee of three members, it being assumed that every effort will be made to elect to this county committee persons who as a group represent fairly the interests of the growers in all parts of the county.

The county board of directors will elect the county committee at a meeting to be held after the community meetings have been held.

The schedule of community meetings is as follows:

Monday, May 18, 7:30 p. m., Washington Grammar school, Garden Grove.

Tuesday, May 19, 7:30 p. m., El Modena Grammar school.

Wednesday, May 20, 7:30 p. m., San Juan Capistrano High school.

Thursday, May 21, 7:30 p. m., Westminster school.

Monday, May 25, 7:30 p. m., Tustin High school.

Tuesday, May 26, 7:30 p. m., Kattella school.

Wednesday, May 27, 7:30 p. m., Fullerton High school, old auditorium.

The minister of the church, Julia N. Bullock, who serves on the committee in an advisory capacity, and its presiding officer, W. H. Blanding, were present, in addition to R. C. Hoiles, Dr. M. W. Hollingsworth, E. M. Sundquist and James Anderson.

A suggested outline of Forum programs through June included subjects of vital interest to all conscientious voters. In so far as the committee is able to obtain speakers, each subject will be presented in the form of an informal debate. Two speakers or more will be asked to be present at each session, to present at least two sides of each debatable question.

Taxation Talk

Immediately following the address on sales and income taxes, to be given on May 20 by Wilfred Taylor of the Commercial National bank, the subject of relief will be considered under the captions, "Boondoggling or the Dole?" and "Who Should Finance and Administer Relief?"

On June 10, the Townsend Plan will be argued pro and con, by promoters and critics, on one platform. On June 17 it is hoped that a symposium of minority parties can be arranged, featuring speakers for socialists, communists, farmer-labor groups, prohibitionists and others. June's last session will be given over to a consideration of the teachers' tenure law, both pro and con.

Shower Staged By Co-Workers Of May Bride

Learning of the marriage of Miss Evelyn Sherrill and Jack Lancaster in Yuma, Ariz., Sunday, May 10, the bride's co-workers in the Abstract and Title Insurance company joined in staging a surprise event in her honor yesterday.

Unaware that the group knew of the ceremony, the new Mrs. Lancaster was surprised indeed when she arrived at the office yesterday to find that special arrangements had been made in her honor. Decorated wedding cakes adorned with bride and bridegroom figures held prominence on two of the desks. Mrs. Lancaster was showered with wedding gifts including a variety of cooking utensils.

The newly-married couple are establishing their home on East Myrtle street. The bride, who attended Santa Ana school, is daughter of the T. H. Sherrill, 602 East Third street. Mr. Lancaster also had his schooling in this city, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy S. Lancaster, 1426 North Baker street. He is employed with the Adair Milk company.

Local Group to Attend Diocesan Convention

Convening Friday in Los Angeles Ambassador hotel, the eleventh annual convention of the Council of Catholic Women of the Diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego will number many Santa Ana residents among its delegates, it was announced today.

In the group planning to attend are Mesdames Ethelbert Johnson, William Maag, George Young, William Castler, J. P. Murphy, J. A. Crawford, Mary Croal, C. L. Carnes, Harry Edwards, Anthony Osterkamp, Ashby Turner.

The convocation will open Friday at 8 a. m. with mass in St. Basil church. There will be a business meeting during the morning, with luncheon at noon. Institute in the afternoon will feature election of a new president. Friday evening sessions will be open to the general public, with the Rev. Bertrand Abell, C. P., and the Rev. E. S. Olsen as speakers. Saturday will bring the convention to a close.

Chicken Dinner Served Bridge Players

Members of one of the gay little bridge clubs of the city always anticipate the evenings when they are to be guests of Miss Edna May Heim, for they know that the pleasure of a chicken dinner at Dixie Castle is almost certain to be their entertainment.

That was the case this week, for Miss Heim had planned a delightful evening for her sister bridge enthusiasts, beginning with the delicious chicken menu and ending with the award of attractive prizes. Miss Cleora Fine and Mrs. Russell Daley held high scores meriting gifts and Miss Grace Anderson was consoled.

Miss Heim's hospitality was extended to Mrs. Daly, Mrs. Frances Lacy, Mrs. Thomas Pangle, Mrs. Kenneth Hill, Mrs. Joseph May, Mrs. Robert Lufbery, Miss Pine, Miss Anderson, Miss Katherine Overton, Miss Helen Overton and one guest, Miss Margaret Young.

Ebell Section Returns Its Three Officers To Their Posts

With only one more meeting before the current club year is concluded, Ebell Fifth Household Economics section members delegated to Mrs. P. B. Gillespie the responsibility of planning the form that their June party will take upon the occasion of the May meeting Tuesday with Mesdames Tarver Montgomery, P. B. Gillespie, F. A. Burkett and Oliver H. Umberham.

The hostess quartet had planned a luncheon at the Doris Katharine club, the Southern district federation, called last night's meeting of all county Business and Professional Women to practice for their numbers at the state convocation. Mrs. Spizky, who is music supervisor in the county schools, is bringing honors to the local club by her nomination to the post of music chairman in the state federation. Her election will come at the approaching convention since she is the sole candidate proposed for the post.

Convention Plans Although formal sessions of the state convocation are to open on Friday morning at 10 o'clock under presidency of Carolyn Weber of Martinez, the actual work will get under way Thursday night at a pre-convention board meeting. Mrs. Martha Whitson of the Santa Ana club, credentials chairman in the state organization, will have prominent part in this, and will be assisted by Miss Lena Thomas, president-elect of the Santa Ana club, in addition to her committee, Mary Leddy of Pasadena and Violet Blakeley of Los Angeles. The latter two were in Santa Ana the past week end, planning with Miss Whitson how to expedite the matter of presenting credentials.

Since 26 per cent of the 119 clubs in the state must be represented at the opening session Friday morning before the convention may launch its program, it will be seen that the credentials committee will be a busy one.

While Miss Whitson and Miss Thomas will be in Coronado for all convention sessions, the majority of Santa Ana clubwomen are planning to attend only those of Saturday and Sunday. Saturday will feature the annual election with a voting body of 274. The polls will close at 2:30 o'clock that afternoon and results will be announced at the banquet to be staged at 7 o'clock in the main dining room of the hotel.

Fun Features With more serious business and program matters concluded, the clubwomen will be ready to turn their attention to sheer fun on Sunday morning, and will stage their annual "stunt breakfast" as the final attraction of the convocation.

While many Santa Ana members may decide later to attend some of the Saturday sessions or the Sunday morning breakfast, a partial list of those who are certainly motoring south for the week end event includes in addition to Miss Whitson and Miss Thomas, Miss Genevieve Humiston, delegate; Miss Winifred Iman, alternate; Miss Lorraine French, junior past president; the Misses Alma Karlsson, Damaris Berman, Lila Ott, Harriett Whidden, Mary Hillyard, Mabel Whiting, Lila B. Finley, Lise Lindzey, Ellis Varie, Dorothy Decker, Bernice Hart, Henrietta Foster, Eunice Adams, Mesdames Mabel Spizky, Grace Wolff, Hazel Northross, Laura McNaught, Blanche Brown, Emma Van Deusen, Rose Walker, Edith Thatcher.

Prizes were won by Mrs. James Clark and Mrs. F. H. Finney, who held high scores in monopoly and anagrams.

Present in addition to Mrs. Stanley and the four hostesses were Mesdames F. H. Finney, James Clark, Ruth Tiffany, Anna Gale, Lovisa Leslie and Dr. Evalene Peo. The next meeting will be held in September.

Former Santa Ana Entertains Club

Mrs. H. O. Garlock and members of her bridge club spent a pleasant day in Los Angeles recently as guests of the former's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Wayne Garlock, (Frances Bitcher).

The young hostess had invited the group to her new home for luncheon. Colorful flowers from the home gardens centered the prettily appointed table. The afternoon was devoted to bridge.

In the group with Mrs. Wayne Garlock were Santa Ana residents including Mesdames Hulda Yackel, Alva McMullen, Edna Wells, Florence Hicks, H. A. Smith, H. O. Garlock, Park Ash.

Speech Arts Section Elects Officers

Mrs. Mark Lacy was elected leader of Ebell Speech Arts section to succeed Mrs. Franklin West Monday morning at a meeting in Ebell clubhouse. Mrs. C. D. Hindley was named secretary.

Mrs. C. P. Boyer provided the program, giving a talk on her travels up the Nile. Mrs. John Clarkson presided as section critic.

Sandwich luncheon was enjoyed at noon, with Mrs. Lacy as hostess. Plans were made to hold the next meeting of the year, Monday, May 25.

Orange County B. P. W. Will Sing Choruses At Conclave

Emulating the birds that express in song their joyousness in the advent of spring, Orange county Business and Professional Women likewise will lift their voices in song for the annual convention of California Federation B. P. W. which opens Friday at Hotel del Coronado. Last night they assembled in First Christian educational building to rehearse for this appearance as a county chorus.

Mrs. Mabel Seeds Spizky, a member of the Santa Ana club and music chairman in the Southern district federation, called last night's meeting of all county Business and Professional Women to practice for their numbers at the state convocation. Mrs. Spizky, who is music supervisor in the county schools, is bringing honors to the local club by her nomination to the post of music chairman in the state federation. Losing Bridge Quartet Presents Luncheon For Winners

In accordance with a club custom, those four members of one of the intimate two-table contract groups, who have held low scores over a certain definite period, were called upon to serve a luncheon to the more successful quartet of players at this week's meeting.

On Tuesday, Mrs. J. Frank Burke opened her delightful home on Panorama Heights for the gay party at which she shared hostess responsibilities with Mrs. A. M. Gardner, Mrs. J. S. Smart and Mrs. Walter D. Ranney.

Guests were invited to the dining room for the luncheon menu served at the linen-spread table with its charming flower arrangement. Later they returned to the living room where card tables were awaiting a resumption of their favorite game.

Notably among the flowers which graced the home, was a great cluster of matilija poppies and mountain lilac, which because it summed up the wild beauty of California hills, later was sent to carry its message of cheer to a friend of the club members who is confined to the hospital.

The party gave opportunity for guests to take farewell of Mrs. Helen Babcock, who tomorrow will conclude her several months' stay in Santa Ana, to return to her home in Hastings, Neb. Mrs. Babcock was a special guest, playing for Mrs. Gardner. Others present in addition to the hostesses were Mrs. E. E. Keech, Mrs. Jessie White, Mrs. J. E. Gowen and Mrs. Samuel M. Davis.

Busy Bee Club Enjoys Afternoon Affair

Mrs. Lulu Johnson was hostess to Busy Bee club members recently in her home, 606 South Broadway, where a two-course luncheon was served to precede other pleasant features of the day. Many flowers were used in decorating.

An informal program in celebration of Mother's day included a reading by the mother of the club, Mrs. Anna Pendleton, and songs by Mrs. Johnson.

Supper Honors Extended Host On Natal Date

Because yesterday was the birthday anniversary of Herbert Hill, it served as incentive to Mrs. Hill to assemble a little group of friends for bridge and a midnight supper in their home, 1623 West Washington avenue.

Although all the colors of the rainbow were mingled in the flowery so charmingly arranged throughout the home, there was a definite trend towards red and white, given emphasis by Mrs. Hill's choice of bridge equipment. When clever hors d'oeuvres sets were awarded Mr. and Mrs. Roy Griset for their combined high scores, and as consolation to Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Barnett, the colors again appeared in combination with shining chromium. The gifts were wrapped in white tissues and tied with gay scarlet ribbons.

In preparing tables for serving her supper course, Mrs. Hill employed all-white linens, accenting the red with the bowls of flowers centering the tables. The final course included a decorated birthday cake, which was the first intimation the guests had of the anniversary of their host.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill entertained Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sugden, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hasenjaeger, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Griset, Miss Jean Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Barnett and Ted Stephenson.

DAY AT BEACH It is a moot question as to whether a day at the beach was to be more thoroughly enjoyed today by a group of young matrons, or by their cunning babies, but probably honors are even. Anyway Mrs. George Horton and her small son Jerry, and Mrs. Joseph B. Erwin and little Miss Susan Jo, her daughter, who are spending the week in a pleasant cottage on the Bay Front at Balboa, today entertained Mrs. Howard Anderson and small Patty Anderson, and Mrs. Ralph Adams and her blonde young son, J. Farrell Adams, Sand castles galore were built by the toddlers, and their young mothers enjoyed the beach sports and the bay as fully as did the future beau and belles.

Many from this city are planning to motor to Anaheim tomorrow night for the recital in Salem Evangelical church in which Madame Rosemary Rose is presenting some of her artist pupils. While singers from various points in the county will be presented, Santa Ana's warmest interest is reserved for those members to be presented by Arras C. Bugge, Katherine Belle Walton and Margaret Elms of this city. The recital program will begin at 8:15 o'clock and is open to all music lovers.

Etcher Gives Program For Two W. C. A. Organizations

"Art is really a vital factor in every day living," said Mrs. Mildred Bryant Brooks of South Pasadena, famous etcher of the Southland, in opening her address Tuesday night for Wrycende Maedgenu club and Girl Reserves, who held a joint program in the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

Mrs. Brooks referred to etching as "the most personal and sensitive of all lines known to creative art," describing and demonstrating the steps required to produce an etching. She differentiated between engraving, etching and drypoint, "all three of which express themselves in areas of line."

Completing her demonstration of the fascinating art of etching, Mrs. Brooks made a print from her plate titled "Aunt Kate's." For this step, she used a Japanese hand-made paper which she explained, is much more lasting than machine-made paper.

Assisted by Miss Doris Robbins of Pasadena, formerly of Santa Ana, Mrs. Brooks had arranged a display of some of her most recent works of art. These included 50 prints which were on exhibition at Smithsonian Institute in Washington D. C. a short time ago. Trees in a variety of moods and settings formed the subject matter for almost all of the etchings.

The program followed, a dinner meeting of Wrycende Maedgenu club, with Miss Rowena Newcomb conducting a short business interval. Events scheduled were election of officers next Tuesday evening; installation, with mothers as guests, June 2; an informal dance open to members and guests, June 5 in the Y. W. rooms.

COMMUNITY CENTER PLANNED FOR OLIVE

Below is the architect's drawing of the community center planned for a site on Bixby drive in Olive. The school district recently voted $8000 towards the project.

WORK ON OLIVE CENTER SLATED TO BEGIN SOON

OLIVE, May 14.—With WPA headquarters expected to approve the Olive community center project soon, work on the building is expected to get under way early this summer. Plans for the building, which have been approved by the Olive Grammar school board and the Olive Improvement association, reveal a structure arranged to include many activities of the community.

The plans were drawn by Fay Spangler, Santa Ana architect, and the building will be erected on Bixby drive on a three-acre plot of ground donated by Jotham Bixby opposite the Olive Grammar school. A hillside location allows inclusion of a basement banquet room.

The entrance lobby is to be an important part of the building. It will contain a library which will hold 1300 volumes and which will have a floor space 13 by 15 feet. A clubroom where women's clubs or organizations may meet will be 16 by 12 feet and an additional room for club meetings will be 25 by 40 feet. A small kitchenette will be adjacent to these rooms.

The gymnasium, which also will serve as the auditorium, will seat 650 people and will be 50 by 50 feet. A junior basketball court will be 42 by 74 feet. The basement clubroom will seat 300 persons and will be 50 by 80 feet. A kitchen adjoining it will be 25 by 18 feet. Opening from the banquet room will be women's dressing rooms and powder room and men's dressing rooms.

LET KIDNEYS FLUSH OUT 3 LBS. A DAY

Clean Out 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes
Nature put over 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters in your kidneys to strain the waste matter out of the blood. Kidneys should pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than three pounds of waste matter.

When the passing of water is scanty, with smarting and burning, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body may take up some of these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Dean's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and help the kidneys to flush out 3 pounds a day.

CITY COUNCIL STUDIES RATES ON INSURANCE

ORANGE, May 14.—Councilman Henry Bandick was appointed by Mayor A. C. Boice to investigate liability insurance for the Orange city park and to report at a meeting of the council to be held May 27 at 7 p. m., when the council met yesterday afternoon. It was explained that the $5000 in the later rate quoted would cover injuries to one person and the $50,000 to two or more.

All equipment, swimming pool and baseball park would be included in the insurance. The park will be opened to the public at the time the swimming pool is finished, it was brought out, some time in July.

Filters used in plunges in nearby cities are to be inspected before a filtration system is purchased, it was decided. The bond for $500 of the city judge, L. F. Coburn, was approved and the official was sworn into office by City Clerk T. H. Ehlert.

A railing was ordered installed on the steps of the city hall both

THE TINY MITES

Wee Scouty dug an hour or so and then he stopped and shouted: "Oh, I surely picked a real tough task. My back is aching now."

"At digging I have done my best, but now I need a little rest," then Cappy cried: "I'll take your place. Don't worry, I know how."

"You Tines keep your eyes on me and in a moment you will see the dirt fly high until I reach the bottom of this hill."

"If there is something buried here, it's going to come out, never fear," "Okay," said Windy. "I'll relieve you when you've had your fill."

He shoveled fast and furious, and Ditty yelled: "That's showing us! Be careful, though, don't overdo. Call Windy to your aid."

"Then, Goldy's glad to help you, too, and I will, also, ere we're through. It shouldn't be so long until some real progress is made."

All of a sudden Windy jumped and shouted: "Say, I'm sure I thumped a mass of something with my spade. Gee, help me dig it out."

More spades were brought, and Scouty ran and woke the old prospector man. He had been sleeping right nearby, 'cause he was fagged, no doubt.

The digging went on for a spell. Then came a quite excited yell from Ditty. "It's a chest," said he. "A very ancient one."

"I hope the large lid is not stuck. Come, haul it out! We'll try our luck at seeing what is inside. That should be a lot of fun."

"Heave ho!" cried Scouty. "All hands here! It's going to be real hard, I fear, to get this thing out to the ground. It weighs a ton or more."

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

ANCIENT CITY -- NEW NAME

SANTO DOMINGO, oldest settlement of white men in the western hemisphere, has taken on a new appearance, and a new name. It is now Ciudad Trujillo (Trujillo City), in honor of the Dominican Republic's president and dictator, Gen. Rafael Leonidas Trujillo Molina.

Founded in 1496 by Bartholomew Columbus, brother of Christopher, the city became one of the most historic in this part of the world. From here sailed Columbus, Cortez, Pizarro, Ponce de Leon, and others on their explorations. Near here the first gold was found by white men in America. And now the ancient city, newly named, is being rebuilt.

An example is the great George Washington avenue, a wide, tree-lined boulevard stretching along the coast and presenting a magnificent view of the harbor. The stamp below is one of four issued recently on completion of this thoroughfare. It pictures the new boulevard and President Trujillo.

Costa Mesa Drilling Operations To Open Soon

NEW OIL WELL PROPOSED FOR HEIGHTS AREA

COSTA MESA, May 14.—Activities that may place this area on the map as a new oil field are being resumed here and will culminate with the beginning of drilling activities on a 300-acre lease in June.

This latest activity is being launched by the Jordan-Maney group, doing business as the Costa Mesa Oil company, and will be on a definite program that has for its purpose the reopening of old test wells formerly sunk here and the development of new holes.

The company has arranged to take over leases formerly held by the Interstate Oil company and will resume operations on the Nineteenth street well, which was abandoned at 7100 feet several years ago.

The Nineteenth street well was drilled originally by Jordan and Maney and closed. It is now planned to sink the hole to a depth of 8500 feet, if necessary to penetrate the oil sand that, according to geologists, will be found at that level.

The Commander Oil company, drilling on the Banning lease, south of the Jordan-Maney holdings, has cemented its well at 2500 feet, having encountered difficulties in obtaining a water shut-off. When the shut-off is completed, it is said, a test will be made for oil.

With the Jordan-Maney group already committed to launch operations next month, considerable activity in North Costa Mesa and Santa Ana Heights is under way. J. L. Mitchell, local real estate operator, representing a New York syndicate, is obtaining leases and has indicated that drilling operations will be launched as soon as a proper amount of acreage is obtained. Mitchell indicated that the group he represents is attempting to sign up 600 acres of land and has set aside $100,000 for test drilling.

The Jordan-Maney group is amply financed, according to members of the group, and will start new wells as soon as the Nineteenth street project is completed.

TOWNSEND ASKS EARLY END TO DECESSION PROBE

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(UP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend today demanded that the House investigation into the old age pensions be brought to a speedy conclusion.

Dr. Townsend is under subpoena to appear next Tuesday to explain the mechanics and set-up of his $200 a month pension plan for persons over 60. He appeared before the committee 10 days ago but was excused when the investigators were not prepared to begin questioning because of failure to receive important data from the west coast.

"While I am anxious and willing to cooperate with the congressional investigation committee in every possible way, I shall insist that its work be brought to an early conclusion," Dr. Townsend said.

"I think the American people will approve of my attitude and judge it to be fair."

Meanwhile, Townsend headquarters made preparations to receive a transcontinental motor caravan due to arrive from Los Angeles during the week end to present petitions demanding the Townsend plan be enacted into legislation.

At the office of committee Chairman C. Jasper Bell, D. Mo., it was said next Tuesday's hearing will begin as scheduled and that Townsend will be permitted full rights to attend the hearing providing there is "no heckling."

Bell has promised to use every effort to complete the inquiry before congressional adjournment, expected in early June.

Chicago Board of Trade

CHICAGO, May 14.—(UP)—Lower outside markets prompted selling of wheat futures today on the Chicago Board of Trade, and the market developed a week undertone.

At the end wheat was unchanged to off 1/4 cent with May 24 1/2, corn was unchanged to off 1/4 cent with May 24 1/2, oats were unchanged to off 1/4 cent with May 24 1/2.

Favorable weather report had little effect on the grain market, which was inclined to follow the trend of other markets.

The failure of Liverpool to reflect the heavy shipments of wheat received from Kansas City were the factors.

Today's Guest Editorial

By W. O. Hart

The "Guest Editor" selects his own subject matter and it may or may not agree with the opinions of the publisher. The Register will invite and publish daily a "guest editorial" by some prominent, practical Orange county citizen.

THE G-MAN

Consider the advantages of raising your boy to be a G-Man.

He will live in high-powered automobiles, bristle with sawed-off shotguns, swoop down—there is only one word for it—on Public Enemy Number Something and depart in a chartered airplane with the prisoner and all the publicity.

It is a much more romantic estate than that of the lowly policeman. And yet, something may be said for the policeman.

It may be recalled that Dillinger, wanted much by the G-Men, was picked up by a "cow County" Sheriff; that Hauptmann was turned in by an alert service station operator; and that Robinson was reported by a humble soda fountain clerk. Local police generally figure in the capture of highly advertised criminals.

It is no reflection on the G-Men that this is so nor is it a suggestion that they do not do their part of the job well. They do. The correlation and distribution of information on criminals and experience in rounding up a bad man, once he is located, are valuable services; but it is neither within reason nor the facts that they do the whole job. It is the spectacular character of their work that results in their getting most of the credit.

Ordinary policemen and alert citizens are the eyes of the federal forces and the newspapers are an important link in the line of communication. Pictures and descriptions of notorious criminals set a million people on the lookout and nine times out of ten the tip comes through some of these sources.

It is important, then, that we do not assume that there is some kind of magic in centralized police power and conclude that the function of local peace officers is relatively unimportant. The more so, since we are frequently urged to surrender police and other powers of local government to some central agency on the claim that such function will be more efficiently performed. The clamor for centralization grows upon us. County consolidations, proposals for state constabulary, delivery of our county roads to the state, are all ideas germinated in the sterile ground of centralized authority. If we but consider the melancholy results of centralized liquor control out of which is steadily rising a demand for local option, we shall be better able to gauge the true relation between local and centralized government.

THE FLOWER OF HOPE

Poppies will bloom in Santa Ana on Saturday, glowing on the coats and dresses of remembering Americans in honor of the World War dead. The women of Santa Ana post of the American Legion Auxiliary will offer the poppies on the streets, giving everyone an opportunity to pay tribute to the war dead and to help the war's living victims with contributions in exchange for the little red flowers.

The American Legion poppy not only gives one a means of rendering personal tribute to the memory of those brave men who sacrificed their lives for America, but it also gives one a means of aiding those who also sacrificed but are still within the reach of our help. From the annual wearing of the little flower come benefits reaching into every corner of the country and touching the lives of thousands of unfortunate men, women and children.

The vast program of welfare and rehabilitation work carried out by the American Legion and Auxiliary draws its principal support from the poppy. The dimes, quarters and half dollars we drop into the coin boxes of the poppy workers supply the means for local, state and national activities for the benefits of disabled veterans and their families left in need through the death or disability of veterans. The Poppy Day contributions make aid available during the other 364 days of the year to those who still are paying in steady installments the war's bitter debt of suffering and privation.

When we pin on our poppies this year, there should come to us all a vision of the part we are playing in the effort to heal the nation's war wounds. We should look upon our poppies not only as flowers of memory for the dead, but as flowers of hope for the living.

LOOPHOLES SEWED UP

There certainly should be no need for America to envy the efficiency of British law enforcement, if all prosecutions were handled as effectively as the Department of Justice does its work.

In St. Paul, for instance, the government, it is said, is not interested whether Alvin Karpis makes a confession or elects to stand trial. Federal attorneys declare they are going into the Karpis affair with an "air-tight" case. Nothing has been overlooked in building a thorough and encompassing prosecution.

That is the sort of efficiency that has enabled the government to prosecute successfully in 95 per cent of its trials. But that is something, unfortunately, that cannot be said for many city and county prosecutors in this country.

The "airtight" case is all too infrequent in criminal procedure today. To its scarcity might be traced the start of more than one public enemy.

MRS. ZIONCHECK'S HUSBAND

San Juan, Puerto Rico, still is shaking in its boots from the latest escapade of Rep. Marion Zioncheck, Democratic playboy from Washington, honeymooning with a bang in the independence-minded U. S. possession.

The man on the flying trapeze is practically motionless, and "Peck's Bad Boy" is Public Sissy No. 1, compared to our playful coconut-tossing New Dealer, foremost exponent of the theory that fun should be taken where you find it.

Mrs. Zioncheck, who married the congressional mad-cap to reform him, seems to have bitten off more than she can chew. After a whirlwind courtship and scarcely more than two weeks of marriage with the will-o'-the-wisp legislator, the pretty young bride finds her irresponsible spouse getting no better fast.

In sunny Puerto Rico, Zioncheck decided to go fishing. No fishing party is complete without refreshments, so Zioncheck and his native guide took along plenty. Sometimes refreshments get you. They got the legislative angler and his guide. Zioncheck made the mistake of trying to take the guide home.

After he had rammed a couple of trucks with his auto, driven through a doorway fence, and narrowly avoided a duel with an aroused Puerto Rican, Zioncheck's wife caught up with the pair and bundled them both into her car and back to their hotel.

It is presumed Zioncheck was put to sleep on top of the bed, and the guide was tucked away on the floor. But, Zioncheck, man of action that he is, wouldn't stay put. He sent in a call for the U. S. marines, demanding congressional protection or something. While waiting for the marines he went to the window and amused himself by tossing coconuts on the cocoanuts of passersby.

This caused more trouble. The gendarmes ran wild. The populace ran for cover. Zioncheck shouted louder for the marines. His native guide slept through it all—a victim of refreshments.

The hotel management fumed. Mrs. Zioncheck pleaded. Finally, old rocking chair got him. Rep. Zioncheck dozed off, peacefully—just another little man who had a busy day.

All of which, while we thoroughly understand it here in the land of the free and the home of the brave, must make it clear now to our foreign cousins just how a lot of dizzy laws get into American law books.

In baseball we have the Deans—Dizzy and Daffy. In congress we have Zioncheck—dizzier and daffier.

THE PEOPLE LEARN

The full fury of the 1936 presidential campaign is upon us. John Public is caught in the maelstrom of charge and counter-charge, and in the next six months he must decide whether he wants the New Deal for another four years.

Hence the important fact to the citizen going into the current campaign is that the whole story is available if he wants to study it. For 1936 marks a new high in the dissemination of campaign ballyhoo, and in the growth of interpretive comment.

Much of it, of course, is unfavorable to the administration, but under our American system, the administration has to take it and like it. And the same is true of the opposition.

Facts will out in this country, and the people can have them for the asking.

So the current campaign rises in intensity, there emerges a more thoroughly informed and intelligent voter. That is the best safeguard of democracy we can hope to have.

Brief Summary Of The Proposed Changes

Day By Day In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1935)

WASHINGTON, May 14.—There is about as much real sentiment in the United States senate today for the treasury's pet theory of a tax on undistributed surpluses of corporations as there is for staying in session all summer—which means very little, indeed, considering the need of members to get back home to their political campaigns.

Yet, it is not for the insistence of the White House, the new tax would go the way of the inheritance tax proposal a year ago. To save somebody's pride, there will, however, be written into the forthcoming tax bill and so-called "principle" of an undistributed surplus tax.

Strictly speaking, the idea of forcing surpluses into distribution when they are retained in holding companies as a means of avoiding tax has always been embodied in the last decade of tax legislation, and today the commissioner of internal revenue under existing law can impose a penalty tax if an "unreasonable" accumulation of surplus occurs beyond the needs of a business of in any personal holding company which doesn't engage actively in business at all but just clips bond coupons or gathers dividends.

Putting the "principle" into more definite form by a slightly graduated tax that doesn't raise the question of reasonableness or unreasonableness but simply declares that a percentage of what is retained must be taxed is going to appease the treasury somewhat because, once the "principle" is accepted, the rates can be changed next year in line with the Tugwell proposal outlined yesterday in these dispatches.

On Capitol Hill, there has been a suspicion for some time that the president isn't as keen about the new tax as some of his treasury theorists, and it has been significant that Chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee and Majority Leader Robinson have been pretty confident all along that congress would adjourn by June 1. Certainly adjournment at that date would not be possible unless a compromise tax plan is offered.

All sorts of compromise plans are being suggested from the Democratic side. If a vote were taken in the senate finance committee, a combination of Republicans and conservative Democrats would reject the bill passed by the house as well as any substitute which drastically taxes surpluses.

The only chance, therefore, is for some plan that does not introduce the surplus tax too violently in the next year or so and yet permits the treasury to get increased revenues from the corporation taxes, the rates on which are going to be raised to perhaps 18 per cent, but on a graduated scale, permitting less taxes on smaller incomes than on the larger earnings.

The bill that will be passed by the senate will probably not contain any processing taxes, no matter how insistent Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture may be to collect them. The political dangers of the processing tax are well recognized now by the Democrats and they are not likely to agree to any revival unless the president makes it an ultimatum. The house of representatives is lukewarm on the idea to.

This much is certain—only about 13 working days remain of the present session if June 1 is the adjournment date. The bill has to be got out of the senate and into conference if it is to be put into real shape at all. At present it is a hodge-podge of unworkable provisions, to say nothing of the doubtful constitutionality of such things as the processing tax. The measure will not get to conference before May 23.

But the Democratic leaders are supremely confident they can work it all out—which means only one thing: The new tax bill will not be as drastic as first believed and the treasury will not get the revenue needed to meet its estimates.

But there never was any serious possibility of getting the budget balanced by the new tax bill anyway. And the real pinch in taxation will come after election, no matter what the outcome of the presidential contest. For the campaign and the failure to tax cannot be indefinitely maintained.

Ma was looking at the advertisements in the back of her magazine, saying to pop, How ridiculous, did you ever hear of such a wholesale exaggeration as that, Willyum?

As what, for instance? pop said, and Ma said, Here's a testimonial for Fondax Facial Cream from Mrs. Clemmington Trout Barkways, claiming that after the 4th application every wrinkle in her face had disappeared like the African snows. I mean after all, Willyum, there's such a thing as driving credulity too far, And who is Mrs. Clemmington Trout Barkways, anyway?

Maybe she's one of the famous F. O. I's, pop said, and Ma said, Who are they? and pop said, Figures of the imagination.

That's impossible, because her picture is here and it's all in natural colors, Ma said. She's certainly well dressed, and she must be somebody of importance, because they wouldn't quote every Tom, Dick and Mrs. Harry. The idea of a woman like that lending her published name to such a posterous statement.

The world must be full of some very gullible people, that's all I can say. Wrinkles don't spring up like mushrooms and they can't be cut down like willow the wisps in 4 applications or even 44. Well, the Fondax people certainly have the courage of their convictions, they advertise a sample jar for 25 cents, I believe I'll send for one, Ma said.

You'll what, for Peet sake? pop said. I thawt you were convinced that the whole thing is bunk, rubbish, balderdash, and maybe even poppycock and hokey, he said, and Ma said, So I am, so it is, but how am I going to prove it to myself that I'm rite unless I send for a sample jar for 25 cents, which is little or nothing, whereas a full size jar costs 4 dollars, if anybody is foolish enough to throw away 4 dollars after reading that absurd so called testimonial.

Its a wimmin's world and they properly deserve it, pop said.

And he got behind the sporting page and stayed there.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

REACTIONARY LIBERALISM

I want today to return to the contention that much of contemporary liberalism is rankly reactionary.

The other day I spoke of the striking resemblance, at many points, between the Old Business and the New Politics.

I wish that someone with the time and the equipment needed for the job would meticulously analyze the extent to which the New Deal legislation has adopted without change, except the auspices, the worst features of conventional business policy.

The shorter sighted business leadership of the last two or three decades has clung stubbornly to an economics of scarcity.

It has, again and again, preferred to shut down its plants rather than lower its prices.

It has deliberately played for scarcity in order to keep its prices up.

It has organized elaborate monopolies or near-monopolies to control production in the interest of high price maintenance.

It has kept itself deliberately blind to the necessity of playing for maximum volume of business with higher wages and lower prices as means of stabilizing its market and keeping its enterprise running at full tilt.

Heretics, in the persons of far-sighted modern business men, have invaded the ranks of this short-sighted business leadership and have acted upon the exact reverse of these principles. And every industry that has been so led has succeeding magnificently.

The riddle of this generation is why the allegedly liberal leadership of the New Deal deliberately chose to follow the blind leadership of the most obsolete business type. And yet this is what the New Deal economics of scarcity amounts to. Copyright, 1935, McClure Newspaper Synd.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE DRAMATIC CHILD

"Eunice, I do wish you would not be so friendly with Lilybelle. She is not the sort of girl I'd like for your friend. The less you see of her the better I'll like it. It is all right to be friendly and all that, but don't be intimate with her."

"Now mother, what is the matter with Lilybelle? She's pretty and bright and has a word for everything and everybody. She's got some life and sparkle in her. You'd like me to go with Cora. She hasn't an idea beyond, 'Isn't that sweet?' or 'How attractive!' She is a lady, of course, but what good is that if it leaves you stranded?"

"Better be stranded than marked as loud and forward and vulgar." "That's your age talking, mother dear. When you were young it was a crime for a girl to send a come-hither look at a boy. Not so today. If you can't master that look you might as well give up and go home to your knitting. If that is all you have against Lilybelle it is nothing."

"Words are only sounds, my dear, until meaning is put in them. I have meaning in the words I used. Loud, vulgar, forward means to me that this girl has gone beyond the limits of behavior set by decent people. There are stories going about—and from what you have told me yourself they are likely too true—that I should hate to have circulated about a child of mine. Mud sticks to a girl for a lifetime. A boy can shake it off, but not the girl. What's this I hear about Lilybelle's being mixed up in a scene at the roadhouse on the long hill?"

"Well, that wasn't exactly pleasant for Lilybelle, but she is not to blame if a boy takes too much drink, and all that. She won't go out with him again. That's all."

"The boy's mother says that it is Lilybelle's influence that made all the trouble. This is not the only instance of it. You will have to drop her. I am not going to have you mixed up in her affairs. She is not our kind. I hoped you would see it for yourself, but as you are blind to everything undesirable about her I shall forbid her the house and your association with her. I'm responsible for you yet a while."

All very well, but it rarely works out. Orders, bans, denunciations alike fail in the presence of the attractive, dramatic child. It is too true that goodness often appears very drab to young people. To often it is negative, inactive, colorless. The wayward child is dramatic. He dares and does and rarely dies. There is always one or two of him in any adolescent group, and leadership is undisputedly granted him. Like sheep the others follow.

It is idle to talk against him. Idle to ban his company. The only thing to do is to beat him at his own dramatic game. Make goodness more attractive than daring. Let goodness be a thing that is fun to do. Let the lawlessness of the dramatic child be extraordinary. It makes someone's task difficult and delicate, this combatting dramatic behavior of the wrong sort with dramatic behavior of the good sort. But it is not an impossible task, and certainly it is a worthy one.

Plain entertainments; train leaders; learn to laugh with youth; adjust your ways and your surroundings a bit to meet the gayety they extend toward life. Save the words and put drama into your activities, and you will win. (Copyright, 1935, The Bell Synd., Inc.)
